Birds that Hunt and are Hunted Neltje Blanchan,1898

Birds Worth Knowing ,2015-07-21 Excerpt from Birds Worth Knowing: Bird Neighbors, Birds That Hunt and Are Hunted (Game Birds), How to Attract the Birds, Birds Every Child Know If all his lessons were as joyful as learning to know the birds in the fields and woods, there would be no ... whining Schoole-boy with his Satchell And shining morning face creeping like Snaile Unwillingly to schoole. Long before his nine o'clock headache appears, lessons have begun. Nature herself is the teacher who rouses him from his bed with an outburst of song under the window and sets his sleepy brain to wondering whether it was a robins clear, ringing call that startled him from his dreams, or the chipping sparrow's wiry tremulo, or the gushing little wrens tripping cadenza. Interest in the birds trains the ear quite unconsciously. A keen, intelligent listener is rare, even among grown-ups, but a child who is becoming acquainted with the birds about him hears every sound and puzzles out its meaning with a cleverness that amazes those with ears who hear not. He responds to the first alarm note from the nesting blue birds in the orchard and dashes out of the house to chase away a prowling cat.
