Digital Material Marianne van den Boomen,2009 This is a compelling study of the often controversial role and meaning of the new media and digital cultures in contemporary society. Three decades of societal and cultural alignment of new media yielded to a host of innovations, trials, and problems, accompanied by versatile popular and academic discourse. New Media Studies crystallized internationally into an established academic discipline, which begs the question: where do we stand now; which new issues have emerged now that new media are taken for granted, and which riddles remain unsolved; and, is contemporary digital culture indeed all about 'you', or do we still not really understand the digital machinery and how it constitutes us as 'you'. From desktop metaphors to Web 2.0 ecosystems, from touch screens to blogging to e-learning, from role-playing games to Cybergoth music to wireless dreams, this timely volume offers a showcase of the most up-to-date research in the field from what may be called a 'digital-materialist' perspective.

The Oxford Handbook of Cinematic Listening Carlo Cenciarelli, 2021 The Oxford Handbook of Cinematic Listening explores the intersection between the history of listening and the history of the moving image. Featuring established and emergent scholars from musicology, film studies, and literary studies, ethnomusicology and sound studies, popular music, sociology, media and communications, and psychology, this Handbook offers a wide range of case studies and methodological perspectives on the archaeologies, aesthetics, and extensions of cinematic listening. Chapters are structured around six themes: Part I (Genealogies and Beginnings) considers film sound in light of pre-existing genres such as opera and shadow theatre, and explores changes in listening taking place at critical junctures in the early history of cinema. Part II (Locations and Relocations) focuses on specific venues and presentational practices (from roadshow movies to and contemporary live-score screenings). Part III (Representations and Re-presentations) zooms into the formal properties of specific films, analysing representations of listening on screen as well as on the role of sound as a representational surplus. Part IV (The Listening Body) focuses on cinematic sound as a powerful and sensual stimulus that has the power to engage the full body sensorium. Part V (Listening again) discusses a range of ways in which film sound is encountered and reinterpreted outside the cinema, through ancillary materials like songs and soundtrack albums, in experimental conditions, and in pedagogical contexts. Part VI (Between Media) compares the listening protocols of cinema with those of TV series and music video, promenade theatre and personal stereos, video games and Virtual Reality.
