Email Encryption Kevin Roebuck, 2011 E-mail encryption refers to encryption, and often authentication, of e-mail messages, which can be done in order to protect the content from being read by unintended recipients. Technology for email is readily available (see below), but has not achieved widespread adoption, apparently due to social factors, such as people seeing the use of encryption as paranoid, and as marking a message urgent whether it is or not (Gaw et al, 2006). E-mail encryption can rely on public-key cryptography, in which users can each publish a public key that others can use to encrypt messages to them; while keeping secret a private key they can use to decrypt such messages or to digitally encrypt and sign messages they send. This book is your ultimate resource for Email Encryption. Here you will find the most up-to-date information, analysis, background and everything you need to know. In easy to read chapters, with extensive references and links to get you to know all there is to know about Email Encryption right away, covering: E-mail encryption, E-mail authentication, Anti-Spam Research Group, Author Domain Signing Practices, Backscatter (e-mail), Bounce address, Bounce Address Tag Validation, Certified Senders Alliance, Certified Server Validation, CRAM-MD5, DNSWL, DomainKeys, DomainKeys Identified Mail, Forward-confirmed reverse DNS, Hashcash, Ident, MAAWG, Mail submission agent, MARID, Non delivery report, POP before SMTP, Pretty Good Privacy, Public Key Name Service, S/MIME, Sender ID, Sender Policy Framework, Sender Rewriting Scheme, SMTP Authentication, Vouch by Reference, E-mail privacy, Secure messaging, Crypto heaven, Enigmail, GPGMail, Entrust, Echoworx This book explains in-depth the real drivers and workings of Email Encryption. It reduces the risk of your technology, time and resources investment decisions by enabling you to compare your understanding of Email Encryption with the objectivity of experienced professionals.

The Third Door takes readers on an unprecedented adventure—from hacking Warren Buffett's shareholders meeting to chasing Larry King through a grocery store to celebrating in a nightclub with Lady Gaga—as Alex Banayan travels from icon to icon, decoding their success. After remarkable one-on-one interviews with Bill Gates, Maya Angelou, Steve Wozniak, Jane Goodall, Larry King, Jessica Alba, Pitbull, Tim Ferriss, Quincy Jones, and many more, Alex discovered the one key they have in common: they all took the Third Door. Life, business, success... it's just like a nightclub. There are always three ways in. There's the First Door: the main entrance, where ninety-nine percent of people wait in line, hoping to get in. The Second Door: the VIP entrance, where the billionaires and celebrities slip through. But what no one tells you is that there is always, always... the Third Door. It's the entrance where you have to jump out of line, run down the alley, bang on the door a hundred times, climb over the dumpster, crack open the window, sneak through the kitchen—there's always a way in. Whether it's how Bill Gates sold his first piece of software or how Steven Spielberg became the youngest studio director in Hollywood history, they all took the Third Door.
