Manuka Honey 101 Daniels Hommes,2019-01-06 You have probably heard of manuka honey, but do you know what makes it different and why it has become all the rage in the world of healing and wellness? Manuka honey, is produced in New Zealand and Australia by bees that pollinate the manuka bush. It was discovered that this very special honey has WAY more antibacterial activity than other honey. Manuka honey is very high in a compound called methylglyoxal, which is one of the main factors responsible for its antibacterial potency. Research has now shown that active manuka honey can effectively inhibit the growth of almost all known human pathogens, including those becoming resistant to antibiotics, like Staphylococcus aureus, Escherichia coli and Clostridium difficile. Because not all Manuka honey is high in methylglyoxal, a need for standardization arose. The Unique Manuka Factor Honey Association was established, and now provides a trademarked UMF rating system for Manuka honey. For Manuka honey to be considered active, it must have a UMF rating of 10 or greater, indicating a certain level of antibacterial activity - the higher the rating, the greater the activity. When looking for a Manuka honey to purchase, make sure you see a UMF rating or logo - it guarantees a pure product! Manuka honey is usually expensive stuffNew Zealand's manuka honey is known around the world. It fetches extremely high prices, and beekeepers do everything in their power to produce as much of it as they can. Wound dressings containing manuka honey are used in leading hospitals, and it has saved the lives of patients infected with disease-causing bacteria that are resistant to standard antibiotic drugs. In so doing, it has forced the medical profession to re-think its position on the therapeutic properties of natural products.This Book will gives you all You need to know about Manuka Honey, How to cure the following diseases using Manuka HoneyWound dressing for cuts and burns (doctors use a medical grade manuka honey that is specially sterilized) ;Flu, colds, coughsIncreased immunityGingivitis & periodontal disease, decreasing plaqueSkin rashes & ailments (i.e., eczema, hives, etc.)TonsillitisStomach ulcersAcneSinus InfectionsGastritis and lots more
