

Internet Marketing Fortune

Anthony Borelli, Greg Holden

How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway Laurence A. Canter,1994 In April 1994, two immigration attorneys in Scottsdale, Arizona did something no one had ever done before. They advertised their legal services to approximately 6,000 of the 9,000 discussion groups called Newsgroups on the Global Internet, reaching tens of millions of people. Their innovative, money-making venture netted over 25,000 customer inquiries for one night's work. The two Internet pioneers, by spending only $20.00 - the price of this book - brought in $100,000 worth of business. But they also received a flood of flames - E-mailed insults - from thousands of Internet users who did not want this part of the Internet used for business purposes. With one advertisement, Laurence Canter and Martha Siegel became the focal point of the violent controversy that continues to rage over commercialization of the once strictly academic Internet. In How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway, Canter and Siegel tell you how to do what they did so successfully - make a fortune advertising on the Internet. You'll get the whole story, explained in clear, nontechnical language. You'll discover that with some fairly simple ideas, a PC, a modem, and a telephone line, you can cybersell your way to wealth. The Internet puts small businesses on an equal footing with the largest corporations by making it possible to reach 30 million people with the touch of a button. Here is everything you need to know about using the Internet as the ultimate marketing tool for almost any product or service. Written in a lively, accessible style, How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway shows how you can be a pioneer in an exciting future filled with marketing and sales opportunities.

Summary: How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway BusinessNews Publishing, 2013-02-15 The must-read summary of Laurence Canter and Martha Siegel's book: How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway: Everyone's Guerrilla Guide to Marketing on the Internet. This complete summary of the ideas from Laurence Canter and Martha Siegel's book How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway shows that internet marketing is now essential, as most successful businesses understand that the internet is where people spend time, therefore companies must integrate themselves into the community. However, it's remarkable how some businesses still fall into traps that are easily avoidable. The authors point out that interactive marketing is far more effective online than simply advertising, because companies can set up an efficient feedback loop whereby they not only sell products but improve products at the same time. This summary takes the reader through some very simple techniques – such as the best way to set up a mailing list – for creating multimedia advertising strategies. Added-value of this summary: • Save time • Understand the key concepts • Increase your business knowledge To learn more, read How to Make a Fortune on the Information Superhighway and discover the road towards a coherent, profitable online marketing strategy.

How To Make a Fortune on the Internet Martha Siegel, 1997-04-03 The Internet has changed dramatically over the past two years. The battle over whether the Net should be used for marketing products and services is essentially over, and the Information Superhighway has become the road to riches for those who had the foresight to take advantage of its unique opportunities. For those who haven't gotten on the I-way yet, there's no need to despair -- whole new possibilities have opened up in cyberspace, and this book addresses them all. Topics include: The brand-new possibilities offered by the World Wide Web The latest laws, such as the Communications Decency Act of 1996 The various advertising options available, including a discussion of spamming How cybersellers can ensure that they get paid for their products and services The advantages of trading in the stock of Internet technology-based companies And much, much more... Clearly written, and free of confusing technical jargon, this is still the undisputed bible for entrepreneurs who want to know how to make a fortune in cyberspace.

How to Make a Fortune on the Internet Madison Connor,2014-11-09 Online advertising, also called online marketing or Internet advertising, is a form of marketing and advertising which uses the Internet to deliver promotional marketing messages to consumers. It includes email marketing, search engine marketing (SEM), social media marketing, many types of display advertising (including web banner advertising), and mobile advertising. Like other advertising media, online advertising frequently involves both a publisher, who integrates advertisements into its online content, and an advertiser, who provides the advertisements to be displayed on the publisher's content. Other potential participants include advertising agencies who help generate and place the ad copy, an ad server who technologically delivers the ad and tracks statistics, and advertising affiliates who do independent promotional work for the advertiser. Internet marketing can also be broken down into more specialized areas such as Web marketing, email marketing and social media marketing: 1) Web marketing includes e-commerce Web sites, affiliate marketing Web sites, promotional or informative Web sites, online advertising on search engines, and organic search engine results via search engine optimization (SEO). 2) Email marketing involves both advertising and promotional marketing efforts via e-mail messages to current and prospective customers. 3) Social media marketing involves both advertising and marketing (including viral marketing) efforts via social networking sites like Facebook, Twitter, YouTube and Digg.
