

Itis

Thomas Lathrop Stedman

Dear Jim: Our History of Itis John Barber, 2011-02-07 The ongoing battle between free individuals and our moribund institutions for the control of information resources, information technology and information systems began with the sexual gods. The chief god Atum, controller of Cosmos, declared sex ungodly and messy, outcomes unpredictable. A sexless god, Atum, though supreme, was unable to control Ra, Thoth, and the seven other sexual gods. With Atumic frustration Atum confined the sexual gods to the Solar System, but with a dire warning: if their activities destabilized the Cosmos they would feel the full force of Atumic wrath. Sibling squabbles between Ra and Thoth spawned endless conflict. Fear for their godly survival forced Ra and Thoth to confine their fight to the Earthly environment. One outcome: Homo Saps, a unique species combining Thought-processing with godlike features and hominid-animal sexuality. Both Ra and Thoth used Homo Saps as foot soldiers. Thoth invented Information Technology/Information System or ITIS (pronounced eye-tis) tools as weapons to help them free themselves from Ras inhibiting controls. Homo Saps used the ITIS tools in establishing, controlling and stabilizing the first Earthly civilizations: Ancient Egypt, Mesopotamia, Ancient India, and Ancient China at the direction of the gods. Homo Saps increasing skills with the ITIS tools allowed them to develop independent Thought processing and break free of godly controls. The Ancient Greek Homo Sap Aristotle and his philosopher predecessors captured the moment by developing their own ITIS applications and demonstrated Homo Saps Thought processing freedoms. They developed the first user-friendly ITIS tool that would change their Earthly reality forever: the 22-letter alphabet. Dear Jim: Our History of IT IS traces the development of the ITIS tools OralITIS, ImageITIS, CalendarITIS, WritingITIS, and AlphabetITIS and their impact on civilizations before the death of Aristotle.

Dr. Swan's Prescriptions for Job-Itis Dennis Swanberg, Criswell Freeman, 2005-07 This book is prescribed for the condition of being a little dissatisfied with the current state of your career.

Itis: Medicine Without the Mystery Gerald Kivett, When I was growing up a visit to the doctor ended with a simple diagnosis and a shot or a prescription. To my recollection my parents never questioned a diagnosis or the treatment. The patient was treated as if he or she was ignorant of medical matters. By the time that I reached medical school not much had changed. It was not until the medical-legal revolution of the late 1970's that some physicians began treating patients as partners in their own care. I firmly believe that if we educate the patient within a framework that he or she can understand and relate to, then the outcome of their treatment will be more successful. My solution to the crisis in the delivery of medical care in this country is to bring back the teaching of health and hygiene at every level of primary and secondary education and make it mandatory for all students. In essence we need to educate our people to be their own health care providers.

E-learning has served as a popular solution all around the world, prompting these parents to prepare their young ones for a brand-new year of online academics. Follow along with our virtual-learning family as they depend on tablets, Wi-Fi, and one another to cope through the new status quo. The first day of virtual learning is right around the corner and their kids have more questions than ever! Viruses and vaccines become a hot topic of the times. PPE, social distancing, and staying clean are the new staples of societal living. Mom and Dad surely have their hands full having to work from home and help their kids with e-learning—but they have got to remain on one accord to prepare their children for this new academic curriculum while keeping them informed of the times. Let alone becoming experts in their own sense, transforming into teachers themselves, just to keep up with all the questions! Love is surely here to stay—closer than ever, as a matter of fact!
