This book is for diabetics, members of the family of diabetics, and for all who may know a diabetic.As you read his book, you will come to know a person who has practiced the idea of "WE ARE THE MASTERS OF OUR FATE." Dr. Till, who has enjoyed 83 years of untold joys and benefits of a healthy and disciplined life admonishes: "Persons who have diabetes need to do more than obey the letter of the law that is prescribed by their doctor. They need to learn everything they can about controlling their disease, be observant of their experiences of the things that help and hurt them, and be forever vigilant in keeping the rules of diabetic health. The lack of knowledge and discipline have caused many diabetics to incur other body ailments, such as blindness, poor circulation, amputation of feet and legs, heart problems, kidney problems, high blood pressure, and many other diabetic related diseases." The Time-Traveler Goes to Kindergarten Elisabeth Almekinder,2016-09-02 This children's book is meant to help kids with diabetes prepare for and feel more confident as they head off to kindergarten for the first time. Many kids with diabetes feel that they are very different from their peers. When they have a clear plan at school related to their diabetes care that everyone in their school has a copy of and can refer to, they feel safe and more confident at school. So curl up with your child at bedtime with the kindergarten adventures of Jake and Sniff. It's sure to get your child with diabetes excited about kindergarten. As they read about Jake and show and tell, they may have their own ideas about how to share their diabetes with their classmates, and raise awareness. Many schools do not provide 504 plans. They should. As a parent of a child with diabetes, you should have a 504 plan to outline what goes on with your child's diabetes at school. Everyone, including bus drivers, substitute teachers, and lunch room staff should know what to do in case of a diabetes emergency. I hope parents and teachers find the tips at the end helpful and reassuring. All kids with diabetes, and their families, should be comfortable when they go off to school, knowing that they are safe in this setting.
