California Entry-level Law Enforcement Officer Job Analysis John W. Kohls,1979 The results of job analyses for the position of entry-level, radio car patrol officer at over 200 California law enforcement agencies are presented. The analyses were performed between October 1977 and March 1978 to develop a job analytic data base for establishing the job-relatedness of employee selection procedures and practices. Most of the information was gathered through a job analysis survey instrument filled out by patrol officers and supervisors. Each agency was asked to choose at least 10 percent of its patrol car officers so that equal numbers had less than 3 and over 3 years of job experience, that equal numbers came from each shift, that different types of beats were represented, and that a substantial number of minorities and females were included. In addition, a supervisor with at least 1 year's experience from each of the three shifts was selected. The analysis types of incidents which required patrol officer response. The frequency of performance and importance of homogeneous groups of these tasks and incidents for each agency were calculated. In addition, the relative importance of 39 categories of work behavior for each agency was determined. The resulting report was individualized for participating agencies and included comparison figures for a group of similar agencies (in terms of size and type of agency) and for the entire statewide sample. This sample copy presents the results for an unnamed participating agency. Recommendations for the use of the data, lists of comparison groups, footnotes, five references, and data tables are included.

The Last Days of the United States Asiatic Fleet Greg H. Williams,2018-05-11 After the attack on Pearl Harbor (December 7), American sailors of the Asiatic Fleet (where it was December 8) were abandoned by Washington and left to conduct a war on their own, isolated from the rest of the U.S. naval forces. Their fate in the Philippines and Dutch East Indies was often grim--many died aboard burning ships, were executed upon capture or spent years as prisoners of war. Many books have been written about the ships of the U.S. Asiatic Fleet, yet few look into the experiences of the common sailor. Drawing on official reports, past research, personal memoirs and the writings of war correspondents, the author tells the story of those who never came home in 1945.

El arte religioso del siglo XIII en Francia Emile Mle,2001-11-26 Notre-Dame de Chartres, Notre-Dame de Beauvais, Notre-Dame de Amiens, Notre-Dame de Senlis, Notre-Dame de Noyon, Notre-Dame de Laon, Notre-Dame de Reims, Saint-Etienne de Sens, Saint-Etienne de Bourges, he aquí el círculo encantado de las catedrales góticas en cuyo centro está Notre-Dame de París. Estos prodigios del arte forman parte del paisaje francés tanto como el Loira, los Alpes o la Costa Azul. Sin ellos, Francia sería un poco menos Francia. Es enorme el número de visitantes que de todo el mundo se reúnen para admirarlas y para rezar en ellas; pero son pocos lo que pueden penetrar verdaderamente todos sus misterios. «Quien llegue sin una preparación ante la portada de Amiens, o ante el pórtico septentrional de Chartres, no logrará penetrar en este universo cerrado. Les hará falta un guía». Escritas en 1898 como prefacio a su tesis sobre El arte religioso del siglo XIII en Francia, estas palabras de Emile Mâle siguen siendo verdaderas; es más, su verdad parece acrecentada hoy, en una época de general empobrecimiento cultural y descristianización como es la nuestra. Gracias a su libro, rico en erudición, claramente estructurado y escrito en un lenguaje sencillo y agradable, el mismo Emile Mâle se convierte en ese guía del que hablaba, del amigo competente que muy a menudo los turistas, cuando se les pregunta, manifiestan desear. Este texto, lejos de parecer superado o inútil por las investigaciones más recientes, parece desafiar al tiempo, como las obras maestras de las que habla. A más de un siglo de su redacción, permanece indispensable compañero, amable y competente, de todos aquellos que aman las catedrales góticas.
