As he begins to really miss his freriends back in the jungle, he feels sad and he searches for other adventures to keep him occupied. He dances to a few of his favorite tunes on their ipod, then heads for the closet and enjoys a fashion show with the human primates baby clothes that he finds. Just as he lies down to relax awhile he hears voices, the human kind and they are getting louder by the second. There is more than one. Coco begins to get really nervous. The two brothers always listened carefully to their momma and always did exactly what she taught them to do, except for that one dreadful day when they were supposed to be going to school. This is where they made the biggest mistake of their lives. A mistake that almost changed their lives forever. Their plan to have fun and seek new adventures sorely backfired. It all began that Friday morning... Hey, let's skip school and go on an adventure! Oh! That sounds like so much fun, said Little Monk. Do you think we'll get in trouble? No, said Monk, Shh, we won't tell anyone, and we will be back by this afternoon, right on time, and momma will never know the difference! Okay, said Little Monk. If you think it's okay, let's go! Come on! It will be a blast! said Monk. Pretty exciting right? Well, before we give too much of the story away, we can't forget about the wonderful cast of jungle critters they meet along the way which became the boys' lifelong friends including a big gray elephant, a teeny tiny giraffe, a beautiful parrot, and last but not least a very handsome Bengal tiger. These are the new friends that they make along the way that stayed with them through the good times and bad and helped them survive and conquer the dangers of the jungle. You won't be able to put this book down, wondering what will happen next as the boys come face-to-face with the dangers and the predators that lurked in the jungle that day.
