Stubborn As Elle Stephanie Kinz,2023-01-15 Elle Riley has had a rough week- full of mishaps, mistakes, and misfortunes. When a witness claims to have seen a murder occur, the seemingly simple balance of Elle's life is upset. The unreliability of the witness leaves Elle to question if a murder actually occurred. She is determined to uncover the nature of the crime. Elle's skills as an investigative journalist and part-time private investigator lead to her teaming up with the no-nonsense local sheriff to help solve the mystery. But with no body, no crime scene, and their only clue being a mystery man with a mystery truck, the pair will have a hard time cracking the case. Hopefully they can catch a possible killer before their differing personalities cause them to kill each other. Elle struggles between her tenacious determination to solve the mystery and her fear of becoming a victim. Will her ask for forgiveness, not permission, personality lead her to her ultimate demise?

Apocalypse Scroll Like It Was Normal kenji kinz,2021-10-26 What if when we wrote our names we forgot them, every time, every word? In apocalypse scroll like it was normal, kenji kinz dispenses a heady homebrew of poetry and essayistic antagonisms despatched from the undercommons. kinz locates and dislocates the conceptualisation of multiple and overlapping apocalypses with a concern less set on the assumed doom of a before-and-afterness but more as the unending and unfixed totality of our social relations. kinz crafts work with a generative daringness that seeks to confront the depraved illogics of colonial-capitalism - a rally cry not insomuch to take up opposition (but also definitely that) but to end the very world that created those very troubles.

Transactional Analysis in Psychotherapy: A Systematic Individual and Social Psychiatry Eric Berne,2024-03-12T00:00:00Z Berne is the originator of transactional analysis, which he made famous with his landmark publication Games People Play. In this work Berne lays the groundwork for a rational method for understanding and analyzing human behavior. Transactional analysis (TA), is a theory in psychology that examines the interactions, or 'transactions', between a person and other people. The underlying precept is that humans are social creatures and that a person is a multi-faceted being that changes when in contact with another person in their world. Berne developed the concept and paradigm of TA in the late 1950s and it has gone on to have continuing influence in popular psychology.

The Cabin in the Woods Ed Kenerson, 2008-09 Cabin In The Woods is a collection of true-life adventures with spiritual insights for young people. It focuses around the time my parents moved our family to a rural, Connecticut town called Cheshire. We took up residence in an old, rustic cabin sitting deep in the woods. There was no running water, no bathroom, no heat and no electricity, only a huge stone fireplace for cooking. But, it was there during that first summer that my parents began to build their dream house. For me, it was the adventure of a lifetime, and the things I learned about life and God were immeasurable. From living in a pine bark cabin to building a house in the woods; from cornering wild woodchucks to getting squirted by skunks; from raising dogs to chasing weasels. I'd like to share these early, cabin adventures with young people of all ages to enjoy. Ed Kenerson attended Gordon College (B.A. Psychology) and Gordon Conwell Seminary (Masters of Religious Education) and has over 10 years experience in Christian Education and Youth Ministry. At present, he manages his own training and communications business called Steps To Success, delivering multi-media presentations to businesses in areas of career management, customer service, and time management. In addition, he reaches out to teenagers in high schools through Career Coach, USA, a strategic ministry designed to teach young people the principles of both personal and professional success. Ed is married to Kathy with two children and eight grandchildren.

Translation as Scholarship Jay Crisostomo,2019-01-14 In the first half of the 2d millennium BCE, translation occasionally depicted semantically incongruous correspondences. Such cases reflect ancient scribes substantiating their virtuosity with cuneiform writing by capitalizing on phonologic, graphemic, semantic, and other resemblances in the interlingual space. These scholar-scribes employed an essential scribal practice, analogical hermeneutics, an interpretative activity grounded in analogical reasoning and empowered by the potentiality of the cuneiform script. Scribal education systematized such practices, allowing scribes to utilize these habits in copying compositions and creating translations. In scribal education, analogical hermeneutics is exemplified in the word list Izi, both in its structure and in its occasional bilingualism. By examining Izi as a product of the social field of scribal education, this book argues that scribes used analogical hermeneutics to cultivate their craft and establish themselves as knowledgeable scribes. Within a linguistic epistemology of cuneiform scribal culture, translation is a tool in the hands of a knowledgeable scholar.

Synclair Rachel Gold,2020-11-01 The summer before her senior year, Emma Synclair decides to find her true love: either a girl or God. Since she has a crush on her best friend—and on her best friend’s girlfriend—Synclair figures she’ll have better luck with God. Which God? How will she know? Wicca, Buddhism, Judaism, Christianity? Her atheist parents are out of the country for three months, so Synclair has the space to try some religions in peace. Or so she thinks, until her friends decide that her house is the party house—that is: the dinner party house! How can she tell them no? She sneaks away to start her spiritual quest, but runs into her childhood friend Avery. Who grew up to be hot. And is also into girls. Is her true love Avery or God? Can she have both or is that the path to neither? Synclair vows to find out.
