Sim, neófito: uma análise dedicada exclusivamente - ou pelo menos de preferência - aos que nunca jogaram League! Qual é o hype por trás desse jogo, cuja vida útil, independentemente de add-nos constantes, vem se sustentando ano após ano, atravessando aproximadamente já mais de uma década entre os PC gamers?

Achievement Relocked Geoffrey Engelstein,2020-02-18 How game designers can use the psychological phenomenon of loss aversion to shape player experience. Getting something makes you feel good, and losing something makes you feel bad. But losing something makes you feel worse than getting the same thing makes you feel good. So finding $10 is a thrill; losing $10 is a tragedy. On an “intensity of feeling” scale, loss is more intense than gain. This is the core psychological concept of loss aversion, and in this book game creator Geoffrey Engelstein explains, with examples from both tabletop and video games, how it can be a tool in game design. Loss aversion is a profound aspect of human psychology, and directly relevant to game design; it is a tool the game designer can use to elicit particular emotions in players. Engelstein connects the psychology of loss aversion to a range of phenomena related to games, exploring, for example, the endowment effect—why, when an object is ours, it gains value over an equivalent object that is not ours—as seen in the Weighted Companion Cube in the game Portal; the framing of gains and losses to manipulate player emotions; Deal or No Deal’s use of the utility theory; and regret and competence as motivations, seen in the context of legacy games. Finally, Engelstein examines the approach to loss aversion in three games by Uwe Rosenberg, charting the designer’s increasing mastery.

Working Effectively with Legacy Code Michael Feathers,2004-09-22 Get more out of your legacy systems: more performance, functionality, reliability, and manageability Is your code easy to change? Determined Look Three Year Letterman,2018-08-24 Determined Look: Stories of a Youth Football Coaching Legend is written by Three Year Letterman, a thirty-nine-year old college dropout who lives in a Northeast Georgia. He is the coach of a youth football dynasty. Unlike many youth sports coaches, Coach Letterman angrily rejects the notion that the purpose of youth sports is to have fun. He instead adopts a win-at-all-costs approach. This sometimes involves him intentionally trying to make players quit, recruiting players that he knows are too old for the league, and altering residency papers. Coach Letterman is also very proud of the fact that he rakes in $29.35 an hour plus bennies and a cell phone and lives in an apartment complex with a pool and computer lab. He lettered for three years in high school football at wide receiver. He still wears his letter jacket to this day and stands in the student section when he watches high school football games. He's also a rabid University of Georgia football fan who takes takes pride in the fact that he barks at opposing fans. This book includes twenty-eight chapters of Coach Letterman offering youth coaching tips and opining on a variety of topics. Topics include How to Attend a High School Football Game and Post-Game Field Party in Style, Turning the Local School System from Adversary to Co-Conspirator, and How to Dominate a Deposition.
