Ancient Aliens and the Lost Islands: Through the Wormhole Sharon Delarose,2013-09-28 Does Earth have portals to an extraterrestrial world? Do these portals lead to the legendary island paradise where the old grow young again? Our ancestors believed in a physical place that promised health, happiness, and immortality. Today we consider the old legends to be myths, nothing more than sailor's fish stories. Yet some of the most prominent names in history devoted their entire lives to searching for the lost island of paradise - and they found it. One or more islands were hidden on the other side of a portal, or wormhole, which made the islands accessible to Earth. Extraterrestrials such as the Nordics and giants lived among us on both sides of the wormhole. They traveled from their world to ours and exposed our ancestors to advanced technology that we had no words for, except to call it magic. We described magic boats, magic mirrors, people with magical powers, and other wonders that seemed beyond belief. The magic was nothing more than motorboats, radios, computers, electricity, voice activated GPS systems, remote controls, prosthetic limbs, advanced medicine, revolving castles, and cloaking technology. We've already achieved most of this magic ourselves. The extraterrestrial visitors had even unlocked the secrets of aging, and for awhile our ancestors had access to it. On the other side of the wormhole, we saw a sun that was different from our own, and cities or castles suspended in the air. These extraterrestrial cities were described as being not on Earth. Time flowed differently and you didn't come back to Earth in the same year that you left it. Historic documents all around the world spelled it out for us. Sometimes the otherworlders took the role of leaders, teaching us and guiding us. Sometimes they took the role of gods who bickered among themselves, or took sides in our battles, sometimes helping us, and other times causing strife. We embraced these beings until humans spread out over the world, and one by one the visitors left. One visitor gave a parting speech, and then ascended up into the air in his vehicle, and disappeared into the clouds. Apparently we rose up against some of the ancient aliens, and we even targeted them with the witch hunts. We sent the message that they were no longer welcome here, and those we didn't kill retreated back through their wormholes, closing up most of the wormholes behind them. Those who were willing to adapt were embraced, and merged into our society permanently. A few portals remained, however, even into the 1900s, and humans not only found them, they visited paradise and came back to tell the tale. The most compelling clues come from the Native American peacemaker Hiawatha, the Norse gods, and a race of magical people known as the Tuatha dé Danann of Ireland and surrounding regions. Ancient Aliens and the Lost Islands: Through the Wormhole follows the clues that were left behind, and attempts to piece it all back together. What did the portals look like? What did humans see on the other side? Is there any correlation between these ancient aliens, and the extraterrestrials who are flying the skies today? What unsolved mysteries can we explain with these portals? Has our own science unlocked any of the answers? Do alien portals to paradise still exist?

Requiem Of Lost Tymes Thomas J. Wood,2014-12-08 Requiem Of Lost Tymes, Chronicles I Roakan rose from his concealed cover, raised his sword above his head as more human warriors ran down the ramp of the warship to refortify their depleting forces. Roakan let out a mighty blood curdling battle cry and lowered his sword toward the human formation and as he did so he began jumping over the rubble that concealed him and led his warriors on a foot charge into the ranks of the human contingent. As he reached the first line of the human enemies Obai'zen and his warriors were on their enemies rear flank as both collided with the wall of the human warriors at the front and rear flanks at almost the same instant. The humans by this time had drawn hand weapons and met the onslaught with as much fearlessness as the attacking Goathrunouk warriors. The two lines of warriors entangled in a clash of bodies, metal, and bone. In the morning sunrise there was the glitter of flashing swords, shredded metal, and the spray of blood as warriors screamed their last life's song. Soon, all that would be left would be the silent victors and the dying as the sun continued to rise as it had done so for millions of years before, unaffected in its designed purpose by the happenings of mere mortals.

Captain Sideris is a loner and knows LETO ships like nobody else, having risen to command the Lunar-Earth construction fleet, as they build ships to mine asteroids and colonize Mars. Suddenly he finds the colonization effort is for another planet, in another galaxy, and he's the sole human guinea pig being gated through a wormhole with an AI playing Noah to LETO SS Casindra's ark. Everything goes well as he starts to survey four planets they plan to exploit, as he gets to know emergent AI 'Al', as he discovers he's building a special relationship with empathic cat 'Simba'. This full length novel reminiscent of Clarke and Asimov is set in the multi-author multi-genre Paradisi universe. Casindra Lost opens the Lost Mission Series which explains what happened to some of the early missions that underlie the various Paradisi colonization and post-colonization stories. Welcome to the Paradisi Chronicles... It's not Alice down the rabbit hole, but Sideris down the wormhole. And that's just the start of the story. It's not the old man and the sea, more like the old man and the galaxy. The enemy is not a whale, but a whale of an asteroid... And that's the start of another story. Word to the Wise: This is the Lost Mission Series. So it's not really a cliffhanger ending when the missions end up, you know, lost! For those that are familiar with the Paradisi Chronicles universe already, this series fills in backstory to the earlier books. Casindra Lost and Moraturi Lost take us on two different ships as they commence their mission, and each is the start of a separate arc, arcs that take several books to resolve. But the stories are not independent, and intertwine in a multitude of ways - still you can read either arc independently, starting either one and picking up the other later. Casindra Lost won the Gold Medal in Science Fiction in the 2021 Global Book Awards for Self-Publishing, and Moraturi Lost won Silver in Science Fiction/Adventure. Moraturi Ring won Silver for Science Fiction Series in the 2021 Global Book Awards. If you enjoyed The Martian, and were looking for something better than Ad Astra, Casindra Lost is for you!

Millennium Judith Reeves-Stevens, Garfield Reeves-Stevens, 2002-05-12 Welcome, Emissary. The travelers take a wrong turn in a wormhole and arrive in the dangerous era of dinosaurs. The boys brave the mighty meat eaters and raging rivers of the past only to discover that alien criminals await them in the future. It's a thrill ride at both ends of time. Short chapters with illustrations on every page make it a great book for reading to children. Maps, Myths, and Men Kirsten A. Seaver, 2004 The Vinland Map first surfaced on the antiquarian market in 1957 and the map's authenticity has been hotly debated ever since—in controversies ranging from the anomalous composition of the ink and the map's lack of provenance to a plethora of historical and cartographical riddles. Maps, Myths, and Men is the first work to address the full range of this debate. Focusing closely on what the map in fact shows, the book contains a critique of the 1965 work The Vinland Map and the Tartar Relation; scrutinizes the marketing strategies used in 1957; and covers many aspects of the map that demonstrate it is a modern fake, such as literary evidence and several scientific ink analyses performed between 1967 and 2002. The author explains a number of the riddles and provides evidence for both the identity of the mapmaker and the source of the parchment used, and she applies current knowledge of medieval Norse culture and exploration to counter widespread misinformation about Norse voyages to North America and about the Norse world picture.

Fold Wormhole Ron Mueller, 2023-05-19 Book 1: The Fold Book 2: The Message Book 3: Fold Wormhole Book 4: Negative Fold Book 5: Ripples In Time Book 3: Fold Wormhole The Sun had not yet broken over the horizon as Bram approached the boulder on which he had spent many a morning during the development of the Fold Equation. He was returning to celebrate the tremendous success that he experienced and to return Einstein back to his home. This time he would sit with Pat, his soul mate and share the sunrise with her. He would give Einstein a cookie crumb and see what his mouse companion would do. Bram had expanded the capabilities of what he could do with the Fold process and had been able to overcome the adverse impact of Folding space. He had learned how to send and receive Fold messages by folding and sending neutrinos as tiny Fold objects. He had used this capability to reply to an Alien civilization in response to their call for help. His next step was to personally use his Wormhole Fold capability to visit the water world that would most likely be the new home for the Aliens. He also wanted to see the Earth like planets that had been identified. He was anticipating a need for he and the Fold community to have a place where they could isolate and be safe from the havoc that he anticipated when the impact of the Fold technology had on the social and economic environment. The flexibility and leverage that Bram had was overcome by the numerous attacks that had been launched against the Fold project, himself, and the rest of the Fold community. He anticipated the need for a place where everyone could retreat. The exploration into the negative time fold exposed a new dimension where time did not exist. Bram entered into a world where his mind guided where he went and what he saw. The universe was not the only existence. The philosophers had been on the right track of thinking of other types of existence. The universe that Earth and humans existed in was just one of millions of universes. Each universe had its own unique condition. It was hard for Bram to fathom what he had discovered. Then Bram lost his way. He was lost in one of the dimensions. It was a moment of pure terror as he realized that he did not know how to return to his own time and space. Then his sensors began to blink a simple message in morse code, follow the light, ..- .--- .-. .-. --- .- / - / .-. .. -. -, Bram knew immediately that Pat had guided a group to figure out how to reach him. He followed the light. The light led him to his starting point from where he knew how to return to the Fold compound and those he treasured. This time he was invited to go fishing by Mike and Mary who had learned about his getting lost somewhere in the Universe. That seemingly innocent invitation was an invite to yet another attack from his adversaries.

George and Alice Griffin and Roger Coulton have established the Iris Foundation, a powerful island-isolated research organization tasked with exploiting the technologies learned from the Makers, re-learning Maker techniques for creating wormholes, reestablishing contact with the Makers, and protecting Earth from Hive invasions. Sparked by a new idea from Roger, Iris researchers finally master wormhole technology and use accelerated wormholes to create Fermi Station in the Oort Cloud. Contact is established with the Makers and the Centaurs, a justice-seeking robotic civilization in our galaxy. The triple alliance mounts a three-pronged attack on the Hive world, destroying the Hive and one of its colonies. A second Hive colony cannot be located and could pose a future problem. Iris launches an armada of accelerated wormholes to probe nearby star systems and establishes a colonization base on Orca, an Earth-like moon of Bowhead, a giant planet in the Tau Ceti system. Mankind has reached the stars. At the publisher's request, this title is sold without DRM (Digital Rights Management).
