Critical Care Nursing Patricia Gonce Morton,2005 A classic in its field, this popular text provides clinical coverage of critical care nursing, with an emphasis on holism in practice. Beginning with the psychosocial concepts of care, the text progresses through assessment and management of a variety of disorders. Now under the head authorship of Tricia Morton, Critical Care Nursing maintains its popular holistic approach to the complexities of adult health and critical care. The Eighth Edition is now in full-color, and has been thoroughly updated to reflect recent changes and advances in critical care nursing. A CD-ROM in the back of this edition has common Critical Care Drug Monographs, Crisis Values of Lab Tests, Critical Care Nursing Procedures, Animations, and comprehensive critical care exams.

The Soul of the Nurse Elizabeth Ann Robinson,2012-11-01 The nurse is central to healthcare and has always been the most prominent figure in times of vulnerability throughout the life cycle. The Soul of the Nurse uncovers the complexity of the nurse by tracing her origins as far back as Neolithic times. The author explains how, over time, the nurse image has been split into one-dimensional disguises ranging from angelic heroine to sex object. Without moralizing or dividing the good from the bad, this book investigates the dynamic energy of the nurse archetype and uncovers what has been lost through splits, repressions, and distortions. Mythology, folklore, archeology, and popular culture are explored, while considering history and archetypal psychology, revealing new insights into the vast capacities of the nurse. Through personal and collective stories, The Soul of the Nurse reveals why the nurse captivates the imagination and is the most trusted professional in society.

Decompressive Craniectomy Bizhan Aarabi,2018 Although decompressive craniectomy is a surgical procedure that has been with us for the past 100 years, its prognostic value in long-term outcomes remains doubtful and its use is at a crossroads. Three randomized trials and numerous cohorts, along with comparative studies over the past 15 years (as shown in the presented figure) have significantly improved our understanding of this simple surgical procedure. In writing this book, the authors not only tried to present state-of-the-art evidence describing the molecular and cellular cascades discovered during the past 40 years and current critical care management of traumatic brain injury, but also found it very appropriate to consider the views of scientists who have contributed immensely in understanding the pathobiology of severe head injury (Simard and Fiskum). The current values of multimodality monitoring of neurochemical processes (Badjatia, Bullock) and the contribution of maximal medical management through guidelines (Stein, Ullman) help to understand how far research concerning the management of head injury has come. The authors deem it important to present the personal views of leading scientists who have conducted two high impact randomized controlled trials (Cooper, Hutchinson, Servadei and Sahuquillo) and the experiential views of decompressive craniectomy during the Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom campaigns (Rosenfeld, Neal). Joint discussions of ethical views between the next of kin and surgeons as well as the value of informed consent constitute the ultimate objective before proceeding with the surgical procedure (Honeybul). The promise of the future, which hangs on additional imaging biomarkers with higher predictive values is presented in a systematic review (Aarabi) that stresses a clear view of the extent of rostral-caudal injury severity to the functional connectivity network, and the connectome on magnetic resonance imaging before proceeding with decompressive craniectomy in patients with low motor subscores.

Outcome Measures for Effective Teamwork in Inpatient Care Melony E. Sorbero,2008 This report presents the final results from the teamwork outcome measures study. The purpose of this study was to identify a set of measures for each of three clinical areas. The measures would represent important patient safety or quality-of-care outcomes that can be expected to be affected by changes in health care teamwork effectiveness (referred to here as teamwork-relevant outcomes). This work addresses one step in the process of moving from teamwork training to teamwork practices that improve outcomes of care; identifying outcomes that are most likely to be affected as teamwork practices improve in an implementing organization. Study components discussed in the report include the methods used for selecting and testing candidate measures, findings from a literature search that informed the measure selection process, the measures identified by clinical experts as representing teamwork sensitive outcomes, and results of the testing of a subset of these measures on the administrative data of the DoD health system.
