Made Up Martha Laham, 2020-10-15 Made Up exposes the multibillion-dollar beauty industry that promotes unrealistic beauty standards through a market basket of advertising tricks, techniques, and technologies. Cosmetics magnate Charles Revson, a founder of Revlon, was quoted as saying, In the factory, we make cosmetics. In the store, we sell hope. This pioneering entrepreneur, who built an empire on the foundation of nail polish, captured the unvarnished truth about the beauty business in a single metaphor: hope in a jar. Made Up: How the Beauty Industry Manipulates Consumers, Preys on Women's Insecurities, and Promotes Unattainable Beauty Standards is a thorough examination of innovative, and often controversial, advertising practices used by beauty companies to persuade consumers, mainly women, to buy discretionary goods like cosmetics and scents. These approaches are clearly working: the average American woman will spend around $300,000 on facial products alone during her lifetime. This revealing book traces the evolution of the global beauty industry, discovers what makes beauty consumers tick, explores the persistence and pervasiveness of the feminine beauty ideal, and investigates the myth-making power of beauty advertising. It also examines stereotypical portrayals of women in beauty ads, looks at celebrity beauty endorsements, and dissects the "looks industry." Made Up uncovers the reality behind an Elysian world of fantasy and romance created by beauty brands that won't tell women the truth about beauty.

iiConsume y calla!! Ana Isabel Gutiérrez Salegui, 2014-03-19 Bífidos, sirtuínas, fitoestenoles, absorción celular, nanoesferas, palabras mágicas con las que nos bombardean desde los anuncios y los estantes del supermercado. Todo el mundo quiere que nos cuidemos, todos los productos parece que nos ayudan a ello. Sin embargo, a pesar de este aparente conocimiento sobre alimentación y nutrición y del acceso fácil, que no barato, a todos estos compuestos, las principales causas de enfermedad y muerte en nuestra sociedad tienen que ver con lo que comemos y cómo lo hacemos: hipertensión, bulimia, diabetes, colesterol, anorexia y obesidad. Con tantas voces a nuestro alrededor «investigando» para crear alimentos «saludables y funcionales» y cremas que nos hagan parecer eternamente jóvenes, ¿cómo es posible que estas enfermedades se hayan multiplicado hasta extremos epidémicos en las últimas décadas? ¿Estamos haciendo algo mal o estamos siendo engañados por esas mismas empresas que tanto dicen preocuparse por nuestra salud y la de nuestros hijos? Este libro pretende desenmascarar a una industria que, además de lucrarse con ello hasta extremos insospechados, es directamente responsable de «las enfermedades de la sociedad occidental». A través de un minucioso trabajo de análisis del mundo de la publicidad sobre alimentación y cosmética, se intentan desvelar y explicar los trucos a los que recurre la mercadotecnia alimentaria, las verdades a medias, las mentiras completas, las manipulaciones de los resultados de las investigaciones, los vacíos legales que lo permiten, y hacer conscientes a los consumidores de las trampas que tiende la industria y que tan nefastas consecuencias tienen sobre la salud y el bolsillo. Sólo la información combate la manipulación, sólo la educación puede combatir el engaño. Este libro busca ambas cosas, informar y educar.

Where will scars be? • Is nipple sensitivity affected by the surgery? • What type of anesthesia is used? • Will I have much post-surgical pain? • What are the risks and complications with this surgery?
