Most injuries that require first aid care are not life-threatening. However, first aid can sometimes mean the difference between life and death. This course is designed to give caregivers and teachers the education they need to effectively care for children.

Every parent would do anything to keep their children away from all harms and injuries. You might try to be like a protective shield for your child all the time, but sometimes it becomes impossible for you to guard your kids against the odds. Your little champions cannot afford to stay in one place. Children are naturally intrigued by every object they come across. It's their intrinsic ability to explore everything. The curiosity that dwells inside them makes them kind of restless (we've all been kids so it's understandable). No matter how many times you forbid your kids from doing dangerous activities or touching harmful things, they simply won't stop doing it. You can't keep an eye on your kids all day, can you? Once they're out of your sight, they might up end up in some danger. What would you do if your baby (God forbid) or someone else's baby starts choking after having ingested a coin? What would you do to save that baby? Do you think you're prepared to cope with that emergency? If not, then you need not worry. This book is all you need to keep your baby safe in any emergency. This book is a complete guide for you that can help you manage any emergency situation that you and your baby might face. Calling for emergency help is certainly the first thing to do, but you can't wait for help and stand there and do nothing. After reading this book, you'll be equipped with different techniques and maneuvers that are simple, yet effective, and can prove to be the difference between your baby's safety and danger. We don't mean to startle you, but being prepared is always better than being sorry. So take a deep breath here and start with us on your journey to become an even better mother/father to your children.

World Report on Child Injury Prevention M. M. Peden,2008 Child injuries are largely absent from child survival initiatives presently on the global agenda. Through this report, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Children's Fund and many partners have set out to elevate child injury to a priority for the global public health and development communities. It should be seen as a complement to the UN Secretary-General's study on violence against children released in late 2006 (that report addressed violence-related or intentional injuries). Both reports suggest that child injury and violence prevention programs need to be integrated into child survival and other broad strategies focused on improving the lives of children. Evidence demonstrates the dramatic successes in child injury prevention in countries which have made a concerted effort. These results make a case for increasing investments in human resources and institutional capacities. Implementing proven interventions could save more than a thousand children's lives a day.--p. vii.

Lead Poisoning Irene Kessel,John O'Connor,2001-10-02 Lead poisoning is one of the most common and preventable pediatric health problems in the United States. The prohibition of lead in paint in 1978, followed by the phasing out of lead in gasoline, have done a great deal to lower the average level of lead in children's blood in the last twenty-five years, but the threat to public health of this insidious poison is far from being eradicated. Every child is at risk.Getting the Lead Out explains the nature and sources of lead poisoning and discusses the basic measures for minimizing the associated risks and damage. It also explains the physical and emotional effects of lead poisoning, including problems with language-acquisition and other learning disabilities, reduced IQ, renal failure, and antisocial and violent behavior. This book gives readers the information they will need to identify symptoms of poisoning in their children as well as lists of resources addressing each special need that may emerge due to exposure. It also includes guidelines for community organizing around the issue and instructions for suing for personal injury.

Health and Health Care as Social Problems Peter Conrad,Valerie Leiter,2003 This engaging and accessible reader takes a social problems approach to health and medicine, providing a broad and critical lens on contemporary health problems. Designed for courses on social problems and on medical sociology, the volume embraces two fundamental principles: that health and illness are at least partly socially produced, and that health care is not an unfettered good and often brings with it serious social problems. The volume is organized into six sections, addressing the medicalization of human problems; the social construction of health problems; social movements; gender; race and class and the provision of health care; and medical accountability. Taken together, the essays demonstrate the depth and richness of a social problems approach to health and medicine, and the critical perspective it brings to our understanding of health and illness in U.S. society.

Forging a Poison Prevention and Control System Institute of Medicine,Board on Health Promotion and Disease Prevention,Committee on Poison Prevention and Control,2004-09-16 Poisoning is a far more serious health problem in the U.S. than has generally been recognized. It is estimated that more than 4 million poisoning episodes occur annually, with approximately 300,000 cases leading to hospitalization. The field of poison prevention provides some of the most celebrated examples of successful public health interventions, yet surprisingly the current poison control system is little more than a loose network of poison control centers, poorly integrated into the larger spheres of public health. To increase their effectiveness, efforts to reduce poisoning need to be linked to a national agenda for public health promotion and injury prevention. Forging a Poison Prevention and Control System recommends a future poison control system with a strong public health infrastructure, a national system of regional poison control centers, federal funding to support core poison control activities, and a national poison information system to track major poisoning epidemics and possible acts of bioterrorism. This framework provides a complete system that could offer the best poison prevention and patient care services to meet the needs of the nation in the 21st century.
