Prototype to Profit Jason Lye, 2021-03-29 Prototype to Profit journeys taking an idea from conception to the marketplace. It's intended for scientists, engineers, and inventors who envision new products or services and seek business guidance. Patents, fundraising, problem solving, marketing, and partnering are discussed, along with examples of how SARS-CoV-2 has led to commercial pivots and evolved the way that business is conducted. Seasoned entrepreneurs highlight additional business insights via embedded video interviews.

Soviet T-10 Heavy Tank and Variants James Kinnear, Stephen Sewell, 2017-06-29 When it was introduced into service in 1953, the T-10 represented a return to the "classic" Soviet heavy tank. Although considered a major threat to NATO tank forces, it also represented the end of an era. All gun heavy tanks like the T-10 would eventually be made effectively redundant by later models like the T-62 which had powerful next generation armament and new ammunition types. The tank was gradually withdrawn from service in the 1970s, though the last tanks would only leave Russian service, by decree of the President of the Russian Federation, in 1997. As such the T-10 outlived the Soviet state that had created it. Never exported outside of the Soviet Union and rarely used in combat, the T-10 has remained a mysterious tank, with many of its variants unknown in the West until very recently. This study, written from original Russian and Ukrainian primary source documents that have only recently been made available, uncovers the history of this enigmatic tank using 130 stunning contemporary and modern photographs of the T-10 as well as full colour side-view artwork.

Investigation of the Helios Prototype Aircraft Mishap - Volume I Mishap

Report Thomas E. Noll, John M. Brown, Marla E. Perez-davis, Stephen D. Ishmael, Geary C. Tiffany, 2012-11-08 The Helios Prototype vehicle was one of several remotely piloted aircraft funded and developed by NASA under the Environmental Research Aircraft and Sensor Technology (ERAST) project, and managed by NASA's Dryden Flight Research Center (DFRC). This vehicle was a proof-of-concept, propeller-driven, flying wing built and operated by AeroVironment, Inc. The vehicle consisted of two configurations. One configuration, designated HP01, was designed to operate at extremely high altitudes using batteries and high-efficiency solar cells spread across the upper surface of its 247-foot wingspan. On 13 August 2001, this aircraft configuration reached an altitude of 96,863 feet, a world record for sustained horizontal flight by a winged aircraft. The other configuration, designated HP03, was designed for long-duration flight. The plan was to use the solar cells to power the vehicle's electric motors and subsystems during the day and to use a modified commercial hydrogen-air fuel cell system for use during the night. The vehicle was also equipped with batteries as a backup source of power. The aircraft design used wing dihedral, engine power, elevator control surfaces, and a stability augmentation and control system to provide aerodynamic stability and control. On 26 June 2003, HP03-2 took off at 10:06am local time from the Navy's Pacific Missile Range Facility (PMRF) located on the island of Kauai, Hawaii. The aircraft was under the guidance of AeroVironment, Inc. (AV) ground-based mission controllers. At that time the environmental wind conditions appeared to be within an acceptable envelope, and consisted of a wind shadow over and offshore from PMRF, bounded to the north, south, and above by zones of wind shear and turbulence separating this region from the ambient easterly trade-wind flow. However, compared to previous solar-powered flights from PMRF, HP03-2 was subject to longer exposure to the low-level turbulence in the lee of Kauai due to the shallower climb out trajectory. The vehicle's longer exposure to Kauai's lee side turbulence and lower shear line penetration were superposed on what the Board now recognizes as greater airplane sensitivity to turbulence and may have been compounded by the apparent narrow corridor between the shear lines noted by the chase helicopter observer. At 10:22am and 10:24am, the aircraft encountered turbulence and the wing dihedral became much larger than normal and mild pitch oscillations began, but quickly damped out. At about 30 minutes into the flight, the aircraft encountered turbulence and morphed into an unexpected, persistent, high dihedral configuration. As a result of the persistent high dihedral, the aircraft became unstable in a very divergent pitch mode in which the airspeed excursions from the nominal flight speed about doubled every cycle of the oscillation. The aircraft's design airspeed was subsequently exceeded and the resulting high dynamic pressures caused the wing leading edge secondary structure on the outer wing panels to fail and the solar cells and skin on the upper surface of the wing to rip off. The aircraft impacted the ocean within the confines of the PMRF test range and was destroyed. The crash caused no other property damage or any injuries to personnel on the ground. Most of the vehicle structure was recovered except the hydrogen-air fuel cell pod and two of the ten engines, which sank into the ocean. The root causes of the mishap include: Lack of adequate analysis methods led to an inaccurate risk assessment of the effects of configuration changes leading to an inappropriate decision to fly an aircraft configuration highly sensitive to disturbances, and Configuration changes to the aircraft, driven by programmatic and technological constraints, altered the aircraft from a spanloader to a highly point-loaded mass distribution on the same structure significantly reducing design robustness and margins of safety.

How to Make a Prototype in a Day Rob W. Gramer,2014-06-18 This short book is the transcript of an interview I did explaining how to make a prototype as fast (and cheap) as humanely possible. No expert skills or fancy tools necessary. Just follow the simple instructions in this quick-reading book and you'll have a prototype done in a matter of weeks (or days). This book won't get you a spit-shined, packaged and perfect end product. But, it will get you a prototype good enough to test your ideas...show someone who can build it for you...or take to investors to secure funding. And get it done without waiting weeks or spending thousands of dollars in the process. And it's fun, fast, and effective. I know. Because this is the exact method I've used to build hundreds of prototypes. My background is in mechanical engineering. I've designed jet engine parts for huge military contractors...and...I've seen this method used to design everything from motorcycle parts...to submarines...to expensive yachts. Big. Small. Simple. Complex. Doesn't matter. If you need a prototype, this will work for you. And let me warn you. Most inventors write this idea off. It's too easy. It's too simple. It's too cheap...they say. It won't work for MY invention. Nonsense. Because it's easy...simple...cheap, is why it works. And it is the exact method multi-billion dollar companies and professional engineers use every single day. So before you scoff at this, try it. You'll be surprised how quickly you get your idea out of your head and into the real world. The information will also help you save time and money if you decide to hire someone to create your idea...and...help you find the right person to help you out with this.

Software Management Donald J. Reifer, 2006-08-30 This Seventh Edition of Donald Reifer's popular, bestselling tutorial summarizes what software project managers need to know to be successful on the job. The text provides pointers and approaches to deal with the issues, challenges, and experiences that shape their thoughts and performance.
