Mark Wallinger Mark Wallinger,2000-10 This book, published on the occasion of the major exhibition Credo at Tate Liverpool, presents an opportunity to examine works of art from all points of Mark Wallinger's surprising and ambitious fifteen-year career. Along with the largest selection of images of Wallinger's work published to date, it includes essays by Lewis Biggs, Ian Hunt and David Burrows that examine the context and history of his practice. Wallinger came to prominence in Britain in the mid 1980s and has since earned an international reputation. He will represent Britain at the Venice Biennale in 2001. His work takes many forms, and displays a restless energy that is both intelligently provocative and humorous. A strong element of political and moral commentary underlines his practice which employs irony, satire and formal clarity. Wallinger explores the complex themes of identity, class, race, humour and spirituality. His primary concern has been to establish a valid critical approach towards the 'politics of representation and the representation of politics'. --Book Jacket.
