The Existentialism of Jean-Paul Sartre Jonathan

Webber,2009-01-13 Webber argues for a new interpretation of Sartrean existentialism. On this reading, Sartre is arguing that each person's character consists in the projects they choose to pursue and that we are all already aware of this but prefer not to face it. Careful consideration of his existentialist writings shows this to be the unifying theme of his theories of consciousness, freedom, the self, bad faith, personal relationships, existential psychoanalysis, and the possibility of authenticity. Developing this account affords many insights into various aspects of his philosophy, not least concerning the origins, structure, and effects of bad faith and the resulting ethic of authenticity. This discussion makes clear the contributions that Sartre's work can make to current debates over the objectivity of ethics and the psychology of agency, character, and selfhood. Written in an accessible style and illustrated with reference to Sartre's fiction, this book should appeal to general readers and students as well as to specialists.

Origin Of 101 Everyday Things Seema Gupta,2005-07-06

There are so many things scattered around us which we use everyday without giving a single thought about their origin. Have you ever wondered where have these things come from? Think of that pen in your hand - it has not fallen from the sky into your hand, or that television which entertains you, was not there when this earth was formed. The eraser, pencil, shoes, chair, table and there are so many other things in our lives which are the successful outcome of research going on for centuries. Tremendous hard work and dedication of many inventors and discoverers has gone into making these things. They worked day and night, laboured under unfavourable conditions to bring these things in our lives. Today we call them backward because they did not have so many electronic gadgets to help them whereas we call ourselves technologically advanced since we have all the means and machines. But could we have all this without their efforts? the answer is simply, no. So it is our duty to continue this tradition of inventing and discovering new things by keeping our eyes and ears open, and also by learning from the past experiences of these great men and understanding their ways of working. This book here presents the horoscope of 101 selected things, which you use everyday. And what makes our book different from other books in its contents? The colourful display of pictures and racy narrative would interest all age groups transporting you in an era of invention and discoveries. Items Covered Include: *Aeroplane *Antiseptic *Aspirin *Ballpoint pen *Buttons *Chair *Chewing Gum *Clock *Coffee *Ice Cream *Lottery *Matchbox *Paper *Perfume *Ship *Skates *Telephone *Train *Typewriter *Washing machine *Zipper

I'd have offered a swap sooner, but I didn't want to look like some greasy doormat. Wasn't no grease about that swap. Pete grinned and rubbed his neck again. I found out real quick who was the big man. Where'd you learn that stuff anyway? Oh, picked it up--here and there. Stan glanced down at the floor. There would be no point in explaining the intensive close combat training he'd been put through at school. Such training would make no sense to his cellmates. To the good citizens of Kellonia, it would seem horrifyingly illegal. He glanced up again. You know how it is, he went on. A guy learns as he goes. Big Carl Marlo swung his legs over the side of his bunk. Looks like you learned real good, he said. He examined Stan. Pete tells me about this deal. I kinda miss the action this time, but Pete tells me he's got the blanket and he's all s
