Catty The Cat Green Vs. Red Choices Irsa Jawed,2020-12-04 It is important to teach students that the choices they make during their day matter. Green choices are good choices that we positively reinforce, whereas red choices are bad choices that we work to minimize or eliminate. Children must be taught good behavior so they can live and work well in society when they grow up. Children with strong social-emotional skills are better able to cope with everyday challenges and benefit academically, professionally, and socially. Learn about various green and red choices one can make in school as well as home, with Catty The Cat. Understanding expected and unexpected behaviors takes a lot of practice and visual supports for early learners which is why this picture book is perfect with its large print and big colourful pictures. It is a great resource for Parents, Therapists and Teachers that need support in helping their child with Behavior/ Classroom Management. Red Revolution, Green Revolution Sigrid Schmalzer,2016-01-20 In 1968, the director of USAID coined the term "green revolution" to celebrate the new technological solutions that promised to ease hunger around the world—and forestall the spread of more "red," or socialist, revolutions. Yet in China, where modernization and scientific progress could not be divorced from politics, green and red revolutions proceeded side by side. In Red Revolution, Green Revolution, Sigrid Schmalzer explores the intersection of politics and agriculture in socialist China through the diverse experiences of scientists, peasants, state agents, and "educated youth." The environmental costs of chemical-intensive agriculture and the human costs of emphasizing increasing production over equitable distribution of food and labor have been felt as strongly in China as anywhere—and yet, as Schmalzer shows, Mao-era challenges to technocracy laid important groundwork for today's sustainability and food justice movements. This history of “scientific farming” in China offers us a unique opportunity not only to explore the consequences of modern agricultural technologies but also to engage in a necessary rethinking of fundamental assumptions about science and society.

Coupled Feedback Mechanisms in the Magnetosphere-Ionosphere System

Scott Alan Thaller, Jean-Francois Ripoll, Toshi Nishimura, Philip J. Erickson, 2022-11-14

Blue Planet, Red and Green Photosynthesis Stephen Christopher Maberly, Brigitte Gontero, 2022-06-28 This book describes the mechanisms that allow aquatic photosynthetic organisms to contribute about half of the global primary productivity; in order to mitigate climate change by sequestering carbon dioxide and producing oxygen, they transform the original anoxic atmosphere of the Earth over geological time. Aquatic photosynthesis is performed by a wide diversity of organisms, predominantly involving cyanobacteria, and algae derived from the “red-lineage”, unlike terrestrial primary productivity, which is restricted to “green-lineage” plants. Blue Planet, Red and Green Photosynthesis describes how, in order to maximize productivity, aquatic primary producers have evolved a series of structures and mechanisms that increase the limiting supply of carbon dioxide to the enzyme, Rubisco, which is responsible for carbon dioxide fixation. This book covers the molecular mechanisms involved in aquatic carbon uptake and the global consequences as humankind alters the blue planet.

Cognitive Processes of Nonhuman Primates Leonard Jarrard, 2012-12-02 Cognitive Processes of Nonhuman Primates covers the proceedings of the Sixth Annual Symposium on Cognition, held at Carnegie-Mellon University on March 26 and 27, 1970. The symposium focuses on the status of research dealing with complex behavioral processes of monkeys and apes, providing insights into complex behavior of human and nonhuman primates. Composed of nine chapters, this book covers short-term memory in the monkey and how this relates to human short-term memory. A chapter compares memory deficits that accompany brain dysfunction in animals and man. The following chapters discuss the analysis of the development of language in a young female chimpanzee and the cogent analysis of interaction between habits and concepts in the monkey. The effects of early deprived and enriched environment on later complex behavioral processes of monkeys are also explained. Moreover, this book goes on examining the nonhuman brain capacities and the continuities with human behavior. It also discusses important research comparing delayed-response performance of several species of monkeys, age groups of children, and adults. The book will be of great help to scientists, researchers, teachers, and students who are interested in cognition processes and memory of nonhuman primates and humans.

The Selected Works of R.B. Zajonc Robert B. Zajonc, 2004 Over the last four decades, R. B. Zajonc has continually pushed the limits of social psychology. This impressive collection of Zajonc's papers captures his quintessential style of research -- a style that is characterized by both simplicity and an effort to penetrate the fundamentals of social behavior. The text will bring historical depth and a strong sense of classical research to one and two semester social psychology courses. It is also the perfect compliment for the other two texts in Wiley's social psychology series: The Selected Works of Edward E. Jones by Daniel T. Gilbert and Social Beings: A Core Motives Approach to Social Psychology by Susan Fiske.
