Haunted Florence H.P. Bradley,2018-09-17 Florence occupies a huge space in American history, and that past left a lot of lingering spirits. A Native American trickster meanders the local swamps. In Mars Bluff, a ghostly guide offers tours of a beloved plantation. A dedicated worker in the former Jamestown area still haunts a dilapidated tobacco barn. At an abandoned boardinghouse, a spectral couple searches for a lost trinket. Author H.P. Bradley details these stories and more of the historic hauntings in the Magic City.

Frozen in Time: An Early Carte de Visite Album from New Bedford, Massachusetts Susan Snow Lukesh,2016-02-15 Susan Snow Lukesh takes a mid-nineteenth century photo album from New Bedford, Massachusetts, created against a backdrop of the Civil War, and moves the people seemingly frozen in time backwards and forwards. The details of daily living, of the marrying, working, and dying of the individuals in the album demonstrate the personal side of the development of this famous whaling capital through its transition to a strong mill economy. These details also show how the financial and intellectual capital of the city fueled development throughout the United States. At their creation photograph albums portrayed, and then continued to portray years later, a community, albeit selective. Importantly, these albums, especially the album presented here, served as a source for personal and collective storytelling, functioning as links to the past, offering intimations of status and social connections and family genealogy.

Snow in March Shawna Snow, 2013-03-11 Snow in March began as a collection of journal entries which were written mostly during the first few years after the death of my late husband, Dan Snow. He was killed in a car accident on 15 March 2003, while driving on highway 126 which connects the 5 and the 101 freeways in California. This stretch of highway is known as one of the more deadly highways in California. Ironically, he was an overly cautious driver, especially on this highway. He left early on a rainy Saturday morning and was killed about an hour later. I wasn't notified until the following day that he was dead. It was one of the longest days of my life, wondering what had happened to him, not being able to get a hold of him, and no one, NOT ONE person had heard from him. I could not find him in a hospital or on a police report. He vanished. A filed police report located him early the next day. At the time of his death, our youngest biological daughter was only 4 months old and our biological son was 8. Our other three children, whom we adopted from Russia 3 years prior, were ages 9, 14 and 15. I was unemployed at that time and we had just sold our house. I was a jobless, homeless, widow with five children. Dan was a well known youth pastor in the area, so his death was quite public. The accident was in the newspaper and his memorial service was attended by more than 2,000 people. I could not go anywhere in the area without being recognized. It was uncomfortable for me as everyone I came in contact with felt the need to cheer me up or say something positive, which usually made things worse. As a way to process all of this, I began to journal. About 2 years after the accident, we moved to Amsterdam. In this new place, we were faced with many changes. No one in Amsterdam knew my story or my history, so it gave me the opportunity to find my voice and develop an identity beyond being a widow with 5 kids. Grief is very personal, but it has a very real communal component flowing from it. In my experience, having family and friends close by was vital for the first couple of years. As Dan was a youth pastor, there was a deep spiritual component which forced me to wrestle with entitlements and belief systems within the upper middle class Christian culture, which didn't make sense to me anymore. Having people around us, who were comfortable with my questions and my doubts as I wrestled with faith and questioned God's goodness and issues of evil in this world, was paramount. As you read this book, my hope is that you can understand how important it is to find your safe spaces and people who will walk beside you. Snow in March is a collection of stories encompassing the inner world of the Snow family. March is a special month for our family. It is the month we adopted our three children from Russia and is the month when Dan died. I was remarried in March and my husband's birthday is also in March: Joy and grief, celebrations and memorials; all in a short time span of 31

Bryn really know the man she loves? For fans of psychological suspense and compulsive mysteries, don't miss this tense and page-turning novel. Before I Go to Sleep meets The Husband's Secret. The Leopard Hat Valerie Steiker, 2007-12-18 In this tender loving memoir, Valerie Steiker evokes a magical childhood on the Upper East side of New York with a woman whose own losses led her to delight in family, beauty and life itself. Valerie Steiker's Belgian Jewish mother, Gisèle—who, as a child in Antwerp, was hidden from the Nazis—wasn't a typical American mom. She spoke with throaty Belgian Rs and wore only high heels. Before her marriage, she had studied acting with Lee Strasburg and been a model in Mexico. With her vitality and elegance, she created a joyous childhood for Valerie and her sister. Together they tangoed through their vibrant Manhattan apartment, took in great art, and shared "women's hidden secrets." Gisèle's premature death left Valerie (at the time a junior at Harvard) unmoored, but in grieving and in finding her own path to womanhood, Valerie would ultimately grow to understand Gisèle more profoundly than she ever had as a child. Beautifully evocative of a glamorous and now-vanished world, The Leopard Hat is an extraordinary memoir about the warm and indelible bond between mother and daughter.

The Journal of Glaciology, 1947 Includes reports of the Society's meetings.
