Welcome to Garden Valley Jean Shelby, 2023-06-30 Joanie Nelson has been pulled under by the currents of life for years, and she's fooling herself when thinking she has it all together. She runs from her career to raising two rambunctious boys to never having enough time with her husband or friends, wondering if she'll ever get caught up. Scrambling in every area of her life is what she knows though, and change is a dirty word in her vocabulary. When her husband is offered a job out of state, Joanie is faced with adapting to change when moving to the unfamiliar territory of Garden Valley. Once known as Mrs. Fix-It, Joanie gave up on her dream of becoming a carpenter long ago to pursue a career in nursing. When her family moves into the ultimate fixer-upper Joanie must dust off her hammer and get to work. Busting out the elbow grease, she's unsure if her abilities will live up to her high expectations of turning their shambles of a house into a home worth loving. Will their family be accepted into the close-knit community of Garden Valley, or will she find herself being swept away by a hectic and lonely life yet again? More importantly, will Joanie be able to step outside of her comfort zone and into a life full of unknown possibilities? The next installation in the Garden Valley series is a meaningful read that touches on motherhood, self-love and tackling the hardships women face every day.

Cities, Economies and COVID-19 Pandemic Himanshu Kumar, 2020-11-14 The aim of this research is to have an in-depth understanding of the dynamics of transmission of the coronavirus, the factors that control the spread of the virus, and to suggest sustainable solutions for a robust economy and healthy lives during the pandemic. The study detail out the relationship between the transmission of the virus and various type of spaces of a city such as residential, retail, workplaces, public transport and recreational to understand the process of the transmission. The study also explores the role of probability and psychological factors in shaping the pandemic. The research methodology is based on a systematic review of most of the recent research papers related to the transmission dynamics of SARS-CoV-2 and non-pharmaceutical preventive measures. The study inferred the factors such as type of space, duration of stay, randomness and close contact are important to understand the spread of the virus in cities. At regional level, the factors such as housing overcrowding, urban densities, government response, weather condition play important role in shaping the pandemic. One of the major findings is the relationship between education, economic prosperity, domestic peace and the spread of the virus. The study suggests two main proposals to minimize the spread of the virus in workplaces and public transport. The segregation of spaces in workplaces and public spaces can help us to avoid close contact between people and random movement of people. This study proposed 5 classifications of spaces to maintain 2m social distancing and 15 SQM minimum office space per person. The study develops a sustainable 24- Hour Economy model to stretch the working hours of most of economic activities to 24-Hour a day and 7 days a week. The concept of Staggered Work hour and Staggered Work days has been used to reduce daily and hourly trips. The analysis of modelling is done on the basis of hourly-trips data, economic activities' workforce data for London city. The detail modeling shows 35-53% of public transport based trips can be efficiently reduced in metropolitan areas during peak hours. And on average 40-50% occupancy of the office space can be reduced during working hours.

In Her Shadow Kristin Miller, 2020-04-21 A pregnant young woman becomes obsessed with the disappearance of her lover's wife, only to discover that she may be headed for the same fate, in this novel from New York Times bestselling author Kristin Miller When secretary Colleen Roper becomes pregnant by her boss, Michael, he whisks her away to Ravenwood, his opulent estate. Abruptly thrust into a life of luxury she's never known, Colleen finds the immense house suffused with the memory of Michael's wife, Joanna, who left months ago and haunts her imagination. With rooms she's prohibited from entering and a staff that greets her with hostility, there is little room for a new mistress of Ravenwood. It's not long before bones are unearthed in the grove across the street and Michael falls under the suspicion of detectives. The soon-to-be mother of his child finds herself hurled deeper into her lover's dark past, a past filled with unfaithfulness and deception. Making a claim to her new life is harder than it seems—especially since she's walking in the shadow of the hauntingly beautiful Joanna. As Colleen untangles truth from lies, she discovers that nothing is what it seems, and that some people will kill to keep their secrets as quiet as the dead. Inspired by Daphne du Maurier's Rebecca, In Her Shadow is the chilling story of one woman's desperate desire to be loved and the ghosts that threaten to get in her way.
