

Strategic Commander 10

Laurie Burkitt, Andrew Scobell, Larry M. Wortzel

Strategic Command and Control Bruce Blair, 2011-05-01 During the past twenty-five years, U.S. strategists have argued that avoiding nuclear war depends on deterring a Soviet first strike by ensuring that U.S. forces could survive a surprise attack in numbers sufficient to inflict unacceptable damage in retaliation. U.S. military and political leaders have thus emphasized acquiring more powerful and accurate weaponry and providing better protection for it, while defense analysts have focused on assessing the relative strength and survivability of U.S. and Soviet forces. In the process neither has given sufficient attention to the vulnerability of the U.S. command, control, and communications system that would coordinate warning of an attack in progress and the response to it. In this study Bruce G. Blair examines accepted assumptions about mutual deterrence, force strength, and survivability, and concludes that the vulnerability of command, control, and communications not only precludes an effective retaliatory strike but also invites a preemptive Soviet first strike. After summarizing the assumptions and evaluative methodology behind mainstream strategic theory, the study describes the current decentralized command and control system that, under conditions of surprise attack, could be unable to communicate with decisionmakers or with units responsible for executing the decisions. Blair traces in detail the development of the system over three decades; the attempts to improve it through the use of procedural guidelines, alternative and redundant communications channels, and survival tactics; and the continuing vulnerabilities from improved Soviet weapons and the environmental forces engendered by massive nuclear detonations. Blair also analyzes the probable effects of proposals by the Reagan administration to strengthen command, control, and communications systems and provides recommendations for further strengthening and for altering related policies, deployments, and strategies to improve the stability of deterrence.

Satan's Strategic Command Jeffery Lee Owen, 2009-06-02 The word of God presents to humanity our pathway of reconciliation to our Heavenly Father! Holy Writ also presents to mankind the origins of evil, its effects on the human condition down through the centuries, and finally its ultimate isolation and eradication from the universe! Eternal or absolute truth is our pathway of reconciliation to our Heavenly Father! As the Christian brethren seek to follow our lord and savior Jesus Christ, growing in the spirit, breaking the bonds of slavery to Satan and sin, the carnal man is trapped in the darkness of his ignorance to the spirit of death and the wages of his sin! The light of Gods word reveals the natural manifestation of evil and its impact on the condition of the human soul! Thus the noblest of men can perceive the effects of evil, and the benevolence of father God, in the inner man as the effects of transgression impact our natural world! The spirit of rebellion and its work is revealed in our natural world via the transgression of Gods commandments enslaving the masses to its power as the unaware continue in the blindness of their hearts! The word of God has warned men to beware of the existence of evil as the condemned angels and the arch rebel Satan work to escape the judgments of Almighty God, building an army of rebellious and Satanic adherents, marked by the seal of their master Satan as revealed in the work of their hands and the pleasures of their hearts, thus perfecting rebellion for the human race as the manifestation of the personification of evil evinces itself for the crowning of Satans throne as the rebel of Almighty God!

History of the Unified Command Plan Edward J. Drea, 2013

Strategy and Command David Horner, 2021-10-15 Compilation of writings on the Australian military's history of strategy and command.

Defining U.S. Atlantic Command's Role in the Power Projection Strategy Douglas C. Lovelace (Jr.), 1998 The authors of this monograph argue that the lynch-pin in the power projection strategy of the United States is a completely transformed U.S. Atlantic Command (USACOM). The monograph details how USACOM has been allowed to evolve since its inception in 1993 but is yet to achieve its full potential for implementing the CONUS-based power projection strategy. Recognizing USACOM as a principal actor in support of this new strategy, the authors recommend that USACOM should be further transformed into a Joint Forces Command. Their analysis exposes the need for a significant review of Title 10 of the U.S. Code and a reexamination of some of the fundamental tenets underlying the structure and command of the U.S. armed forces. The reappraisals they propose will impact the Office of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Joint Staff, the Military Departments, and the unified combatant commands in important ways.

Strategy and Command Louis Morton, 1962 An analysis of organization and logistics as well as strategy and command, covering the coming of the war, Japanese policy and American strategy before Pearl Harbor, Japanese victories in the first six months of the war, first efforts in New Guinea and the Solomons to stem the Japanese tide, and the limited offensive in the summer of 1943.

Sharing success--owning failure : preparing to command in the twenty-first century Air Force David L. Goldfein, 2001 Then-colonel David L. Goldfein discusses several themes central to a successful command tour. His ideas and questions will spark your imagination as you begin preparing for the task ahead of you--squadron commander. He shares stories from other squadron commanders that include both success and failure because, as Goldfein states, it is from studying our failures that we learn, grow, and improve as officers and leaders. Maj Gen Charles D. Link, USAF, retired, states that this book is a must-read, not only for those selected to command a squadron but for all our young officers. General Goldfein is the current chief of staff of the Air Force.--

Nuclear Command and Control Norms Salma Shaheen, 2018-09-28

This book offers a new analytical framework for studying nuclear command and control (C2), based on a comparative study of four nuclear weapons states (NWS). The subject of nuclear operations management has long been shrouded in secrecy, and whilst the importance of nuclear C2 cannot be disputed, there are few academic studies into how and why states develop these systems. This volume includes a comparative study of the development of nuclear C2 by four different NWS (Britain, China, India, and Pakistan) and demonstrates that, despite several differences, there is a central set of factors that remain constant. The analytical framework used in this study identifies key factors that can potentially shape the evolution and stability of nuclear C2. These factors include geostrategic (threat) environment, international norms, leadership, and control of nuclear operations (civil-military control). The book also analyses the interaction among different stakeholders within the nuclear C2 enterprise. It recognises that politicians, the military and scientists all have key but different roles to play, and the way these stakeholders have learned to co-exist with each other is explored. This volume offers a set of dynamics that could form a global norm for nuclear C2, serving as a standard for new entrants into the nuclear club. This book will be of much interest to students of nuclear proliferation, global governance, and International Relations in general.

Command in NATO After the Cold War Thomas-Durell

Young, 1999-02 A series of essays on the changes in command and control (C&C) and the reorganization of a reduced NATO force structure at the end of the Cold War. Topics addressed include:

reorganizing NATO C&C structures; the NATO CJTF C&C concept; command authorities and multinationality in NATO; Canadian forces in Europe; France's military command structures in the 1990s; centralizing German operational C&C structures; Italy's command structure; Portugal's defense structures and NATO; present and future command structure: a Danish view; and NATO restructuring and enlargement. Charts and maps.

The Lessons of History Laurie Burkitt, Andrew Scobell, Larry M. Wortzel, 2003

Automated War Gaming as a Technique for Exploring Strategic Command and Control Issues Paul K. Davis, 1983 This document describes a preliminary concept for including strategic command and control effects within the automated war gaming of Rand's Strategy Assessment Center. The concept features: a top-down functionally oriented approach relevant to the interests of civilian and military leaders; a hierarchical and otherwise multilevel gaming structure; and heuristic rule-based models using a variety of artificial intelligence techniques. The approach will be sensitive to key features of war plans and control procedures. It will make a start on reflecting such phenomena as nonunitary decisionmaking, deception, and confusion. It will take into account some of the asymmetries distinguishing the U.S. and the Soviet approach to Command Control Communications and Intelligence. Initial versions of the implemented concept should be useful and interesting but will be relatively simple; with time, it should be possible to evolve gracefully and use some of the detailed models available on pieces of the overall C3I problems.
