Our Heart His Mission Jill Barker,2021-02-24 Our Heart His Mission is a collaboration (something women are good at) between Laura Yarbrough, myself, and the women of the South Texas Assemblies of God.Laura put the bug in my ear, and when I spoke to my husband, Tim, he was immediately onboard. Then came Covid-19 to challenge our plans to bring this book into print.Closures. Quarantines. Working from home. We missed the connection of Sunday mornings, weekly outings, and shared experiences with our families and friends.Yet, if 2020 taught us anything, it was to step back and evaluate our lives. Staying home and quarantining made us realize just how special our time together in Jesus really is. Our dream for this book didn't fade. It became more vital than before.It was an opportunity for God to speak a Word of power over the challenges we faced. We needed to break through the roadblocks the devil was throwing against us. One of those breakthroughs came in Melissa Kautz, who accepted this project as her own and forged ahead, a powerhouse of efficiency who got things done. The book you hold in your hand, Our Heart His Mission, is a result of the ladies in our South Texas District opening their hearts and revealing the truths God was speaking into their lives throughout the devastation of 2020. Ladies across our district, sharing their hearts, refusing to give up, still on a mission for Jesus. We all have stories of God's goodness to tell. Be inspired to write your own. Like the devotionals in this book, it may become a blessing to someone who needs to hear your story of God's amazing grace.Jill Barker STX Women's Ministries DirectorMarch 2021

Shiga toxin-producing Escherichia coli in human, cattle and foods. Strategies for detection and control Nora Lía Padola, Analía Inés Etcheverría, 2014-11-11 Shiga toxin-producing Escherichia coli (STEC) is an important foodborne pathogen associated with both outbreaks and sporadic cases of human disease, ranging from uncomplicated diarrhoea to haemorrhagic colitis (HC) and haemolytic uraemic syndrome (HUS). STEC affects children, elderly and immuno-compromised patients. STEC is capable of producing Shiga toxin type 1 (Stx1), type 2 (Stx2) or both, encoded by stx1 and stx2 genes, respectively. These strains are likely to produce putative accessory virulence factors such as intimin (encoded by eae), an enterohaemolysin (EhxA) and an autoagglutinating protein commonly associated with eae-negative strains (Saa), both encoded by an enterohaemorrhagic plasmid. Several studies have confirmed that cattle are the principal reservoir of STEC (O157 and non-O157:H7 serotypes) and many of these serotypes have been involved in HUS and HC outbreaks in other countries. Transmission of STEC to humans occurs through the consumption of undercooked meat, vegetables and water contaminated by faeces of carriers and by person-to-person contact. Diagnostic methods have evolved to avoid selective diagnostics, currently using molecular techniques for typing and subtyping of strains. Control is still a challenge, although there are animal vaccines directed against the serotype O157:H7.
