A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum Titus Maccius Plautus,1991 (Applause Libretto Library). Book by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart Introduction by Larry Gelbart This brazenly retro Broadway musical, inspired by Plautus, is as timeless as comedy itself. The Reason for God Timothy Keller,2008-02-14 A New York Times bestseller people can believe in—by a pioneer of the new urban Christians (Christianity Today) and the C.S. Lewis for the 21st century (Newsweek). Timothy Keller, the founding pastor of Redeemer Presbyterian Church in New York City, addresses the frequent doubts that skeptics, and even ardent believers, have about religion. Using literature, philosophy, real-life conversations, and potent reasoning, Keller explains how the belief in a Christian God is, in fact, a sound and rational one. To true believers he offers a solid platform on which to stand their ground against the backlash to religion created by the Age of Skepticism. And to skeptics, atheists, and agnostics, he provides a challenging argument for pursuing the reason for God.

The World Economic Forum Geoffrey Allen Pigman,2007-01-24 This book explores the paradoxes and unique characteristics of the World Economic Forum, highlighting contemporary issues and debates on global governance, economic development and corporate social responsibility. The Forum is one of the most influential, but least understood, global institutions. Its annual meeting in Davos, Switzerland and its regional summits held around the world attract a significant and powerful audience from the worlds of business, economics, politics and civil society. The participants, who include business and political leaders, representatives of international institutions and civil society organizations, academia and the media, meet to debate issues of global concern and to develop possible solutions. Forum members see the organization as an innovative venue bringing together different types of stakeholders to solve global problems. To its critics, however, the Forum's public face conceals a private venue for making business deals. With clear and concise sections, including boxes containing key ideas and arguments, The World Economic Forum is a much needed introduction to an important and controversial organization and will be of considerable interest to students and practitioners of international business, international political economy, economics, development, international relations, and globalization.

C , Terrorism and Mental Health Overview-This meeting will examine the short- and long-term mental health consequences of terrorism and look at private-sector responses to increased demand for mental health services in the wake of the September 11 attacks. [...] (Public systems could also be challenged but will not be the focus of this meeting.) Even as the recent public policy debate has centered on parity for mental health coverage and the elimination of service limits in private insurance, some employers and their behavioral health managers have been concerned about network accessibility and meeting existing service needs of employees and family members. [...] The recent events will shine a light on it.¹⁰ THE FORUM SESSION At this Forum Session, speakers will discuss the early response of employers and behavioral health firms to worker mental health needs in the wake of the September 11 terrorist attacks and explore the prospects for meeting future service demands. [...] The questions to be addressed include the following: What do we know about short-term and long-term mental health needs in the aftermath of a disaster? What factors increase risk for developing or aggravating post-traumatic stress disorders, stress-induced physical problems, depression and anxiety disorders, substance abuse, and other problems as a result of the September 11 events? An estimate. [...] What outreach activities and interventions are necessary to respond? How are employers responding to the mental health needs of their workforce? What roles can they play in responding to the potentially widespread and long-term needs? What is the capability to assess pre- and post-event mental health service use in order to better prepare for future events? Where are the gaps in the service system.
