Ethel Wilson David Stouck, 2011-11-01 When Ethel Wilson published her first novel, Hetty Dorval, in 1947, she was nearly sixty years old. With her following books, she established herself as British Columbia's most distinguished fiction writer and one of Canada's best loved and most studied authors. Although she enjoyed and even encouraged her reputation as an unambitious latecomer who wrote for her own pleasure, she was, as David Stouck reveals in this book, a person who took her writing very seriously. Drawing on the Wilson papers held at the University of British Columbia, Stouck provides an important survey of Wilson's talents while at the same time offering the fullest biography of the author to date.

The Lilly Flower Julia Weaver,2012-11-30 When she was a small child, Lilly and her mother had lived with her Uncle John, an archaeologist, in an old caravanserai near Konya in Turkey. Her father, his brother, was excavating at another archaeological site in Syria. Lilly loved her Uncle John. He had recently had a heart attack, so when his partner Aladdin telephoned to inform her, she planned to visit him immediately. When she exited the Ankara Airport, her Uncles partner Aladdin was not there to meet her as he usually was. Lilly waited an hour and then hired a taxi to go to her uncles apartment. She was met by two policemen enquiring about her uncles friend Nick Talmage. She let the police enter the apartment and search its rooms. When they finally left, she bolted the door. Lilly was ready for bed when she heard noises in the hallway and looking around the bedrooms doorway, she saw Nick Talmage collapse to the floor. A bookcase behind him swung back into its place in the wall. Take a Flying Carpet Tour it can change your life.
