Winston Ma

Transformers Emily Lawrence,2017-11-09 Author Emily Lawrence has managed to bring this larger than life movie from the big screen to an even larger literary stage. In this novelization, an incredible city is demolished to ruins in a post galactic war; however the Earth itself is spared. As humankind pick up the pieces, a shadowy group rises in opportunistic fashion to take control of history. Coincidentally, an antiquated and effective new threat also sets its sights on Earth. Texas native Cade Yeager enables a beaten Optimus Prime and the Autobots to ascend to their former glory and address their most formidable difficulty yet. The end result is the ultimate combat between a Prime led team and a host of enemies. The stakes are high and the possibility of a modern day age of extinction is all too real.

Exploring the Collective Unconscious in the Age of Digital Media Schafer, Stephen Brock, 2016-01-28 For decades we have witnessed the emergence of a media age of illusion that is based on the principles of physics—the multidimensionality, immateriality, and non-locality of the unified field of energy and information—as a virtual reality. As a result, a new paradigm shift has reframed the cognitive unconscious of individuals and collectives and generated a worldview in which mediated illusion prevails. Exploring the Collective Unconscious in a Digital Age investigates the cognitive significance of an altered mediated reality that appears to have all the dimensions of a dreamscape. This book presents the idea that if the digital media-sphere proves to be structurally and functionally analogous to a dreamscape, the Collective Unconscious researched by Carl Jung and the Cognitive Unconscious researched by George Lakoff are susceptible to research according to the parameters of hard science. This pivotal research-based publication is ideally designed for use by psychologists, theorists, researchers, and graduate-level students studying human cognition and the influence of the digital media revolution.

Transformers Kris Oprisko, 2008 Graphic novel adaptation of the 2007 Transformers movie.

Hollywood in China Ying Zhu, 2022-07-02 China surpassed North America to become the world's largest movie market in 2020. Formerly the focus of exotic fascination in the golden age of Hollywood, today the Chinese are a make-or-break audience for Hollywood's biggest blockbusters. And movies are now an essential part of China's global "soft power" strategy: a Chinese real estate tycoon, who until recently was the major shareholder of the AMC theater chain, built the world's largest film production facility. Behind the curtains, as this brilliant new book reveals, movies have become one of the biggest areas of competition between the world's two remaining superpowers. Will Hollywood be eclipsed by its Chinese counterpart? No author is better positioned to untangle this riddle than Ying Zhu, a leading expert on Chinese film and media. In fascinating vignettes, Hollywood in China unravels the century-long relationship between Hollywood and China for the first time. Blending cultural history, business, and international relations, Hollywood in China charts multiple power dynamics and teases out how competing political and economic interests as well as cultural values are manifested in the art and artifice of filmmaking on a global scale, and with global ramifications. The book is an inside look at the intense business and political maneuvering that is shaping the movies and the U.S.-China relationship itself—revealing a headlines-grabbing conflict that is playing out not only on the high seas, but on the silver screen.

From Film Practice to Data Process Sarah

Atkinson, 2017-12-20 To what extent have digital innovations transformed the UK film industry? What new practices and processes are emerging within the contemporary UK filmmaking landscape? What impact is this having upon filmmaking professionals? The business of conventional feature filmmaking is like no other, in that it assembles a huge company of people from a range of disciplines on a temporary basis, all to engage in the collaborative endeavour of producing a unique, one-off piece of work. By focusing on the pivotal year of 2012, and by considering the input of every single contributor to the process, this book illuminates how this period of analogue to digital transition is impacting upon working practices, cultures, opportunities and structures in the industry, and examines the various causative forces behind their adoptions and resistances. With an in-depth case study of Sally Potter's 2012 film 'Ginger & Rosa', and drawing upon interviews with international film industry practitioners, 'From Film Practice to Data Process' is a groundbreaking examination of film production in its totality, in a moment of profound change.

Image – Action – Space Luisa Feiersinger, Kathrin Friedrich, Moritz Queisner, 2018-10-08 Screen-based media, such as touch-screens, navigation systems and virtual reality applications merge images and operations. They turn viewing first and foremost into using and reflect the turn towards an active role of the image in guiding a user's action and perception. From professional environments to everyday life multiple configurations of screens organise working routines, structure interaction, and situate users in space both within and beyond the boundaries of the screen. This volume examines the linking of screen, space, and operation in fields such as remote navigation, architecture, medicine, interface design, and film production asking how the interaction with and through screens structures their users' action and perception.

Breaking Boundaries Katherine Janice Murray, 2011 Based on providing visual representation of all functions and key pieces of content, What You See Is What You Get (WYSIWYG) is the current interface design paradigm primarily used in personal computing machines. As we move into a world where computing power continues to increase, and we choose to decrease the physical size of our machines so that they will fit into our pockets, WYSIWYG will break. This research agenda explores a paradigm shift, asking whether users of computing machines can effectively complete tasks without this reliance on visual representation of all functions and information. The two experiments described in this dissertation seek to answer these questions: 1) do visual cues of information and function continue to be required by users in order to complete tasks using mobile devices? 2) are users moving beyond a reliance on recall and recognition memory in human-computer interaction? Furthermore, if these experiments are successful in showing that users no longer need to rely on visual cues in ways similar to the WYSIWYG interactions, can we then describe human-mobile interaction within a memory framework beyond standard recall and recognition? We built two distinct task-based protocols in which participants were asked to work through multi-step tasks, enacting functions and locating pieces of information that we described as being located outside of the physical space of the screen. These functions and pieces of information were not visually represented on the screen. Rather, the participants were primed to understand that the functions and information existed in this non-visual form and could be enacted through particular interaction techniques that referenced the particular, specific space outside of the screen where these items lived. In the two experiments, participants worked through tasks, either in a WYSIWYG or in a YUMYS paradigm. We took a series of behavioral measurements, including time on task, total number of interactions between the user and the machine in order to complete the task, and successful, correct completion of the tasks. The outcome of this research agenda indicate that the YUMYS interface paradigm will provide a better design framework for mobile designers that will allow mobile users to perceive a decreased workload and increased success as they complete tasks within a YUMYS interface.

The State of Post-Cinema Malte Hagener,Vinzenz Hediger,Alena Strohmaier,2016-11-30 This book approaches the topic of the state of post-cinema from a new direction. The authors explore how film has left the cinema as a fixed site and institution and now appears ubiquitous - in the museum and on the street, on planes and cars and new digital communication platforms of various kinds. The authors investigate how film has become more than cinema, no longer a medium that is based on the photochemical recording and replay of movement. Most often, the state of post-cinema is conceptualized from the high end of the most advanced technology; discussions focus on performance capture and digital 3-D, 4-K projection and industrial light & magic. Here, the authors' approach is focused on the low-end circulation of filmic images. This includes informal networks of exchange and transaction, such as p2p-networks, video platforms and so called "piracy" with a special focus on the Middle East and North Africa, where political and social transformations make new forms of circulation and presentation particularly visible.
