The Records of Living Officers of the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps (Classic Reprint) Lewis Randolph Hamersly,2015-08-04 Excerpt from The Records of Living Officers of the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps The services of army officers have been recorded by several authors, but those of the Navy and the Marine Corps have been wholly neglected, the Official Registers merely giving the name, place of birth, date of last commission, and present station. Much more is required, not alone in justice to these gallant patriots, but as part of our national history; as an incitement to others to pursue the career in which, while performing duty, they won renown. The present volume endeavors to supply this want. For the conductors of the public press, who may have occasion to write about these brave men, living or dead (for, though glory is immortal, those who obtain it must submit to the common destiny of their race), this work will be a treasury of facts, accurate in its full details. Henceforth, when an Officer of the Navy or Marine Corps passes to the better land, the recording journalist can draw upon these pages for the substantial facts of his public service, and not, as hitherto, make mere mention of his name.
