Rotating Machinery Getu Hailu, 2020 Rotating machinery or turbomachinery is a machine with a rotating component that transfers energy to a fluid or vice versa. Rotating machines are one of the most widely used machines. They are used in everyday life, at least once a day. We find a turbomachine (fan) in a hair dryer and in a computer. We find a turbomachine (pump) in a refrigerator. Other commonly used household machines are clothes washers and dish washers. These machines need to drain the dirty water and replace with clean water. To do so an important component of these machines is a pump that is used to remove the dirty water. A water pump (hydrodynamic pump) is also essential to our car's operation by maintaining an optimum operating temperature of the engine. The pump ensures that the coolant keeps circulating through the engine block, hoses and radiator, and maintains an optimum operating temperature. Turbomachines are also key machines used in power generation, fluid transportation, the processing industry and energy conversion. This book presents recent developments in improving the aero-thermal performance and the efficiencies of rotating machines.

Rubber Machinery Henry C. Pearson,2016-09-04 Excerpt from Rubber Machinery: An Encyclopedia of Machines Used in Rubber Manufacture Rubber manufacture, be it noted, divides itself into some thirteen well defined classes. In these lines there are certain basic processes that all use - washing and mixing, for example. It is true, also, that most of them make cements, for their own use at least; that a great number use tubing machines; that spreaders are used by others than proofers, and so on. The object of this volume is to record the machines that are of general application either to all or to a number of the lines into which the trade is divided. To this end voluminous matter has been collected from machinery makers the world over; from rubber factories, from patent specifications - American, English, German and French. The actual value of such a collection to the rubber manufacturer, whatever his line, should be great, but the suggestive value will be even greater.
