Skin Walkers Leto Susan A. Bliler,2013-03-19 Shy Brookes is in a world of hurt. Attempting to rescue the handsome man she discovered her fellow scientists were hoping to use as a live specimen, Shy finds herself locked up and tortured in a cell of her own. When a team of mercenaries tears through the facility and effectively rescues her, Shy assumes her problems are over. Wrong! The team of Skin Walkers insist that she belongs to the handsome prisoner she'd attempted to free. Claiming she carries the man's scent, the Walkers are determined to return her to her mate. Leto Reigns doesn't know who's to blame for his captivity at the Megalya labs, but he's certain Shy has played a role. She's admitted to being an employee of the facility that hunts and experiments on his kind...Skin Walkers. His plan is to snap her pretty little neck the first chance he gets, but first he's determined to find out why she carries his scent. He'll have to control his temper and his disconcerting attraction to the auburn haired beauty to get his answers, if she'd stop running from him long enough to allow him to get close.

Translation and Conflict Mona Baker,2018-10-25 Translation and Conflict was the first book to demonstrate that translators and interpreters participate in circulating as well as resisting the narratives that create the intellectual and moral environment for violent conflict and social tensions. Drawing on narrative theory and with numerous examples from historical and current contexts of conflict, Mona Baker provides an original and coherent model of analysis that pays equal attention to the circulation of narratives in translation and to questions of dominance and resistance. With a new preface by Sue-Ann Harding, Translation and Conflict is more than ever the essential text for any student or researcher interested in the study of translation and social movements.

Skin Walkers Susan A. Bliler,2015-02-11 Cindy Sambrano hates her life. She lives in a crappy little house, drives a crappy little car, and has a crappy younger brother, Cody. After their parents' death, she feels compelled to take care of him, to try to keep him on the straight and narrow, but--as usual--he's messed up again. Owing a huge debt some seriously bad dudes, Cindy's brother needs help getting the cash. His plan? Rob Cindy's employer, Monroe StoneCrow. Cindy has no intentions of following through. Her true plan is to work triple and quadruple shifts to help earn the money to pay off Cody's debt. Hell, she's even willing to go so far as to take up the offered employee housing on the Estate to save on rent and gas. She just needs to string her brother along long enough to keep him from doing something stupid until she can dig them out of debt. Problem? Of course there is. CEO and Dominant Walker, Monroe StoneCrow, receives information from his Sentry, RedKnife KillsPrettyEnemy, that convinces the CEO that Ms. Sambrano has ulterior motives at StoneCrow and could be working with the Walkers' enemy faction, the Megalya. Too late, RedKnife realizes that he's put Cindy's life in jeopardy with his inadvertent misinformation. Knowing the CEO won't back down, it's up to RedKnife to steal Cindy from the Dominant Walker and hide her until he can prove two things: One, her innocence to Monroe, and two, he needs to show Cindy that she is his One.

Portals Amanda D. Lotz,2017 Television audiences and its industry alike have been confused by the emergence of new ways to watch television. On one hand, the programs seem every bit like the television we've long known, while the way we can watch, what we can watch, and the business models supporting them differ significantly. Portals: A Treatise on Internet-Distributed Television pushes understandings of the business of television to keep pace with the considerable technological change of the last decade. It explains why shows such as Orange is the New Black or Transparent are indeed television despite coming to screens over internet connection and in exchange for a monthly fee. It explores how internet-distributed television is able to do new things - particularly, allow different people to watch different shows chosen from a library of possibilities. This technological ability allows new audience behaviors and new norms in making television. Portals are the channels of internet-distributed television, and Portals identifies how the task of curating a library of shows differs from channels' task of building a schedule. It explores the business model--subscriber funding--that supports many portals, and identifies the key differences from advertiser or direct purchase. Portals considers what we know about the future of television, even though we remain early in a process of transformative change.

The Hidden Lamp Zenshin Florence Caplow,Reigetsu Susan Moon,2013-10-21 The Hidden Lamp is a collection of one hundred koans and stories of Buddhist women from the time of the Buddha to the present day. This revolutionary book brings together many teaching stories that were hidden for centuries, unknown until this volume. These stories are extraordinary expressions of freedom and fearlessness, relevant for men and women of any time or place. In these pages we meet nuns, laywomen practicing with their families, famous teachers honored by emperors, and old women selling tea on the side of the road. Each story is accompanied by a reflection by a contemporary woman teacher--personal responses that help bring the old stories alive for readers today--and concluded by a final meditation for the reader, a question from the editors meant to spark further rumination and inquiry. These are the voices of the women ancestors of every contemporary Buddhist.

Mathematical Conversations Within the Practice of Mathematics Lynn M. Gordon Calvert,2001 Mathematical Conversations within the Practice of Mathematics questions underlying assumptions and broadens current perceptions of mathematical practice and discourse. Rather than simply a verbal exchange, a conversational discourse is viewed as a way to maintain our relationships with others as we seek meaning and coherence in our lived experiences. This book explores the nature of mathematical conversations and their place in the practice of mathematics. The necessary incompleteness of expression, explanation, and understanding within mathematical conversations is revealed and explored in this book resulting in alternative images of intelligent action, acceptable explanations, and the nature of mathematics and reality.

Apocalyptic Dusk Deep Naskar,2021-04-07 This book is a collection of dark poems written over a span of seven years. It talks about an apocalypse which is highly personal in nature. The doom which came suddenly, without any prior notice, and flooded everything. It was the dusk when the sun set and never rose again. The poems here are subjective, surreal and prone to individual perception, ranging from passionate poetic epiphanies to cryptic imageries and references. They offer a multi-layered meaning and expose themselves depending upon how much the readers wish to probe into.

Chance Discoveries in Real World Decision Making Yukio Ohsawa,Shusaku Tsumoto,2006-12-13 For this book, the editors invited contributions from indispensable research areas relevant to chance discovery, which has been defined as the discovery of events significant for making a decision, and studied since 2000. The chapters contain contributions to identifying rare or hidden events and explaining their significance. The methods presented in this book are based on the interaction of human, machine, and humans' living environment.

Dizygotic Twins - A fiction of facts Abhishek Chatterjee,2020-08-05 The whole purpose behind writing this book and sharing my thoughts with the world is to make life better, help people become more reasonable in their approach, remove negative vibes and solve problems in human relations that spoil the joy of life. I have touched upon various aspects of life, like its creation and purpose, common conflicts and their reasons, how to make human life less complicated and I have put great deal of emphasis on parenting. In the first part, I have mentioned about how a good entity designed and created this universe and life, and what could have been the possible reason behind it. In the second part the other side of my thought gets manifested, where it says this universe was conceptualized and brought about by a negative element, also explains the possible reason behind it. Hence the title, Dizygotic Twins, which is basically the medical term for non-identical twins. Both of them are my brain child. Definitely all these are largely my imaginations based on life events, and on both the versions, I have tried to give some solutions at my level, which also includes discussion about Anti-Natalism. That's why I called it a Fiction Of Facts! One might find a layer of rawness in my style of writing due to the fact I am a rookie when it comes writing. This is my maiden work in writing, so kindly pardon the lack of finesse which you may witness while reading. My mind and heart were brimming with these thoughts and concepts for decades, I couldn't hold them back, and hence I just poured them all out despite being a complete naïve in literature. Hope this book makes some sense to the reader. Many Thanks
