Media and the Make-Believe Worlds of Children Maya Gotz,Dafna Lemish,Hyesung Moon,Amy Aidman,2014-04-04 Media and the Make-Believe Worlds of Children offers new insights into children's descriptions of their invented or make-believe worlds, and the role that the children's experience with media plays in creating these worlds. Based on the results of a cross-cultural study conducted in the United States, Germany, Israel, and South Korea, it offers an innovative look at media's role on children's creative lives. This distinctive volume: *outlines the central debates and research findings in the area of children, fantasy worlds, and the media; *provides a descriptive account of children's make-believe worlds and their wishes for actions they would like to take in these worlds; *highlights the centrality of media in children's make believe worlds; *emphasizes the multiple creative ways in which children use media as resources in their environment to express their own inner worlds; and *suggests the various ways in which the tension between traditional gender portrayals that continue to dominate media texts and children's wishes to act are presented in their fantasies. The work also demonstrates the value of research in unveiling the complicated ways in which media are woven into the fabric of children's everyday lives, examining the creative and sophisticated uses they make of their contents, and highlighting the responsibility that producers of media texts for children have in offering young viewers a wide array of role models and narratives to use in their fantasies. The downloadable resources provide full-color images of the artwork produced during the study. This book will appeal to scholars and graduate students in children and media, early childhood education, and developmental psychology. It can be used in graduate level courses in these areas.

Galactic Fun Park Mason Bell,2021-08 Galactic Fun Park finished the summer with record attendance, but the uptick in guest complaints about rodents overshadowed the feat. Theme parks thrive on public perception, leaving management no choice but to hire exterminators who set traps near the animal's burrows and hovels. The threat of certain death forced the nocturnal animals into action. Losing their extended families and rich culture to the fearful humans wasn't an option. But pride ran deep within each species, weakening their chance of success. Could the animals put aside their differences and unite for the good of all? And more importantly, would the effort be wasted on humans who doubted an animal's intelligence?--Publisher.
