Web Services Development with Delphi Peter Darakhvelidze, Eugene Markov, 2002 Intended for professional developers working in Delphi who are looking for a way to move into the sphere of new programming technology for e-business, this guide discusses specific Delphi tools and technologies and enables developers to take advantage of the RAD technique with the new version of Delphi for creating Web services. Emphasis is given to the development of data processing using the XML and SOAP protocol and to the creation of Web services based on its capabilities. Also covered are all aspects of working with databases—data presentation; local, client-server, and distributed systems; and technologies of accessing data, from BDE to dbExpress and dbGO. Methodologies For The Conception, Design And Application Of Soft Computing - Proceedings Of The 5th International Conference On Soft Computing And Information/Intelligent Systems (In 2 Volumes) Gen

Matsumoto, Takeshi Yamakawa, 1998-08-25 Soft computing is the common name for a certain form of natural information processing that has its original form in biology, especially in the function of human brain. It is a discipline rooted in a group of technologies such as fuzzy logic, neural networks, chaos, genetic algorithms, probabilistic reasoning and learning algorithms. Today, soft computing has become an acknowledged concept; however, for a long time, such components of soft computing have been debated and individually developed. Since its beginning in 1990, the series of IIZUKA conferences has covered various kinds of technologies that constitute soft computing. This series has played a pioneering role in promoting the development of a symbiotic relationship between the various technologies of soft computing. At IIZUKA'98, the 5th International Conference on Soft Computing and Information/Intelligent Systems, new developments and results in this field were introduced and discussed by researchers from academic, governmental and industrial institutions around the world. This volume presents the opening lecture by Prof. Walter J Freeman, the keynote speech by Dr Gen Matsumoto, the plenary lectures by 5 eminent researchers and about 230 carefully selected papers drawn from more than 25 countries. It documents current research and in-depth studies on the fundamental aspects of soft computing and their practical applications.

Building Imaging Applications with Java Technology Lawrence H. Rodrigues,2001 This is an expert guide to building sophisticated Java graphics and imaging applications with the Java 2 platform. Through extensive practical examples and projects, leading graphics developer Lawrence Rodrigues covers topics that other Java graphics books ignore -- including the first in-depth coverage of using the new Java Advanced Imaging (JAI) APIs, and integrating them with Java2D. Rodrigues covers all aspects of building Java-based graphics and imaging software, starting with application design. He demonstrates how to generate graphics, load and display them, manipulate, print, and save them. He also covers several advanced topics, notably remote imaging. The book presents detailed coverage of four key Java graphics class libraries, including java.awt.Graphics, java.awt.Graphics2D, java.awt.color, and java.awt.font. Each chapter ends with a project that helps readers integrate every key concept they've learned. For every intermediate-to-advanced level Java developer interested in building sophisticated graphics and imaging applications.

High Performance Networking VII A. Tantawy, 2013-06-05 It is always confusing, and perhaps inconvenient at times, using generic terms that will mean something to everyone but different things to different people. High Performance is one of those terms. High Performance can be viewed as synonymous to High Speed or Low Latency or a number of other characteristics. The interesting thing is that such ambiguity can sometimes be useful in a world where focus shifts quite easily from one issue to another as times and needs evolve. Many things have changed since the first HPN conference held in Aachen, Germany in 1987. The focus then was mainly on Media Access Control (MAC) protocols that allow users to share the high bandwidth of optical fiber. FDDI (Fiber Distributed Data Interface) was making its debut with its amazing 100 Mbps speed. ATM (Asynchronous Transfer Mode) and SONET (the Synchronous Optical Network) were beginning to capture our imagination. What could users possibly do with such high performance? Share it! After realizing that the real problems had gradually shifted away from the network media to the periphery of the network, focus also began to shift. Adapter design, protocol implementation, and communication systems architecture began to attract our interest. Networking -not Networks-became the hot issue.

Experimental Characterization of Advanced Composite Materials Leif A. Carlsson, Donald F. Adams, R. Byron Pipes, 2014-03-05 Over the last three decades, the evolution of techniques for the experimental testing of composite materials has struggled to keep up with the advances and broadening areas of application of the composite materials themselves. In recent years, however, much work has been done to consolidate and better understand the test methods being used. Finally
