From Germany to Brazil André Landau-Remy, 2017-09-06 Heinrich Landau-Remy, born in the Rhineland, and Maria née Körte, born in Berlin, married in 1934 and migrated to Brazil in 1935. Years earlier, Heinrich had begun working just before hyperinflation hit Germany. He lived for a few years in England and in France, and witnessed the rise of Nazism. Having a Jewish grandfather, and thus considered to be non-Aryan, he chose to leave Germany, a country he never ceased to love. This book recounts Heinrich and Maria's lives. It also describes their often illustrious family histories and relatives, who include a president of Austria, a Nobel Prize winner, and significant industrialists, artists, and intellectuals (including the Wittgenstein family). Heinrich's Landau grandparents were friends with the composers Clara Schumann, Johannes Brahms, and Max Bruch. The book also describes the move, by various relatives, to Argentina and to the United States, as well as the history of the Trechman branch in England. Written by André Landau-Remy, Heinrich's grandson, the book was initially based on long texts left by Heinrich. Lastly, André describes his childhood memories of his grandparents' house in Petrópolis, in the mountains near Rio de Janeiro.

Jacques Rancière and History André Fabiano Voigt,2020-06-30 This book aims to analyze the work of the French philosopher Jacques Rancière in his relationship with History and the writing of History. Our thesis is that the author uses a logic that combines the use of words, regimes and scenes to establish a critique of the rationality employed by historians, especially with regard to the use of words to discuss the historical trajectory of anonymous people and the revolutionary processes . In our view, the author criticizes historians on how to use concepts and notions a priori to, in turn, steal the word of the anonymous and speak on their behalf. Our proposal is to rethink the historian's attitude towards an interdisciplinary view of historical research.

EG-ICE 2021 Workshop on Intelligent Computing in Engineering Abualdenien, Jimmy, Borrmann, André, Ungureanu, Lucian-Constantin, Hartmann, Timo, 2021-08-06 The 28th EG-ICE International Workshop 2021 brings together international experts working at the interface between advanced computing and modern engineering challenges. Many engineering tasks require open-world resolutions to support multi-actor collaboration, coping with approximate models, providing effective engineer-computer interaction, search in multi-dimensional solution spaces, accommodating uncertainty, including specialist domain knowledge, performing sensor-data interpretation and dealing with incomplete knowledge. While results from computer science provide much initial support for resolution, adaptation is unavoidable and most importantly, feedback from addressing engineering challenges drives fundamental computer-science research. Competence and knowledge transfer goes both ways. Der 28. Internationale EG-ICE Workshop 2021 bringt internationale Experten zusammen, die an der Schnittstelle zwischen fortgeschrittener Datenverarbeitung und modernen technischen Herausforderungen arbeiten. Viele ingenieurwissenschaftliche Aufgaben erfordern Open-World-Resolutionen, um die Zusammenarbeit mehrerer Akteure zu unterstützen, mit approximativen Modellen umzugehen, eine effektive Interaktion zwischen Ingenieur und Computer zu ermöglichen, in mehrdimensionalen Lösungsräumen zu suchen, Unsicherheiten zu berücksichtigen, einschließlich fachspezifischen Domänenwissens, Sensordateninterpretation durchzuführen und mit unvollständigem Wissen umzugehen. Während die Ergebnisse aus der Informatik anfänglich viel Unterstützung für die Lösung bieten, ist eine Anpassung unvermeidlich, und am wichtigsten ist, dass das Feedback aus der Bewältigung technischer Herausforderungen die computer-wissenschaftliche Grundlagenforschung vorantreibt. Kompetenz und Wissenstransfer gehen in beide Richtungen.

Contextual Computing Robert Porzel, 2010-11-25 Recent advances in the fields of knowledge representation, reasoning and human-computer interaction have paved the way for a novel approach to treating and handling context. The field of research presented in this book addresses the problem of contextual computing in artificial intelligence based on the state of the art in knowledge representation and human-computer interaction. The author puts forward a knowledge-based approach for employing high-level context in order to solve some persistent and challenging problems in the chosen showcase domain of natural language understanding. Specifically, the problems addressed concern the handling of noise due to speech recognition errors, semantic ambiguities, and the notorious problem of underspecification. Consequently the book examines the individual contributions of contextual composing for different types of context. Therefore, contextual information stemming from the domain at hand, prior discourse, and the specific user and real world situation are considered and integrated in a formal model that is applied and evaluated employing different multimodal mobile dialog systems. This book is intended to meet the needs of readers from at least three fields – AI and computer science; computational linguistics; and natural language processing – as well as some computationally oriented linguists, making it a valuable resource for scientists, researchers, lecturers, language processing practitioners and professionals as well as postgraduates and some undergraduates in the aforementioned fields. “The book addresses a problem of great and increasing technical and practical importance – the role of context in natural language processing (NLP). It considers the role of context in three important tasks: Automatic Speech Recognition, Semantic Interpretation, and Pragmatic Interpretation. Overall, the book represents a novel and insightful investigation into the potential of contextual information processing in NLP.” Jerome A Feldman, Professor of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, UC Berkeley, USA <http://dm.tzi.de/research/contextual-computing/>
