QR Codes for Trainers Kella Price,2013-01-16 Using QR codes is an effective and engaging way to make training more interactive and offer learners resources that they can access quickly through mobile devices. QR codes are about connections: connecting people with one another AND connecting them to digital content. The two-dimensional barcodes are used to make it easy for learners to take recommended actions, increase peer-to-peer collaboration and knowledge transfer, conduct real-time activities, and provide instant support materials and job aids. In this Infoline, you will learn how to create QR codes using free or low-cost tools and effective techniques. You'll also learn to - Share information for training and performance support - Enhance learning at conference sessions and events - Promote learning events and increase attendance - Measure the effectiveness of QR codes in your learning programs
