Flash .NET Gerald YardFace,David Neal,Pallav Nadhani,Graeme Bull,Chris Bizzell,2013-12-14 The absolute cutting edge for application development at the moment is using Macromedia's Flash MX (the premier software for designing fantastic looking interfaces) with Microsoft's .NET framework (tremendously powerful server-side technology). Combining these technologies has been greatly aided by the release of Macromedia's Flash Remoting MX, which is covered fully in this book. Designers and developers involved in the creation of this technology impart their knowledge to you in this book through extensive case studies. Flash Remoting is not the only way to combine these technologies, however, so this book will fully cover Flash/.NET integration using ASP.NET. This book is for readers who are looking to integrate their Flash movies with a .NET-enabled back-end. It assumes no prior knowledge of server-side technologies, but does require knowledge of Flash MX and ActionScript.

Growing up in Boom Times Chris Brockman,2011-06-03 Even as we Baby Boomers have put our stamp on our world, our growing up has had a profound effect on us. We rebelled, protested, turned on. We bridged the simplicity of our parents' youth and the beguiling complexity of our own children's. Before all that, though, we played outside a lot and without fear, we ate dinner at home with our families, we found good things to watch on our three or four T.V. channels, and we managed to have great fun close to home with just our bikes, our dogs, and our friends.

The Deal Chris Coulter,2012-06-28 CHRIS COULTER was born in Canada and now resides in the inner north of Melbourne with his two children. to add to his cosmopolitan background Chris went to high school in Bendigo, Victoria and was tertiary educated in both Brisbane and Melbourne in business and property. When not writing, Chris runs his own investment management company. He has an abiding love of sport, in particular his daughter's basketball team and the Collingwood football club! Writing is Chris's other great passion and outlet, as it allows him to share his mind's eye view of the world with his readers.

Epicaricacy Christopher Boden,2021-11-15 Hilarious, cutting, and irreverent humor ties together a series of short stories you will not want to put down. Epicaricacy is a series of 15 entertaining stories told from the life and perspective of the author, Chris Boden. Frequently self-deprecating, and sometimes painful, these stories teach life lessons through his own wild failures and adventures. Come along for the ride as Chris gives you glimpses into parts of his life that, up to this point, were reserved for a few close friends. Chris penned Epicaricacy after the success of his initial book of short stories, Surviving Life With Your Gigantic Penis, which was released in 2019. As with his first book, Chris strives to bring inspiration, entertainment, and joy to his readers through a combination of brazen humor, rapier wit, and real-life experience.

Screen World John Willis,Barry Monush,2006-04-01 (Screen World). An invaluable reference guide for anyone who loves film. Back Stage Movie fans eagerly await each year's new edition of Screen World , the definitive record of the cinema since 1949. Volume 56 provides an illustrated listing of every significant American and foreign film released in the United States in 2004, documented with more than 1000 color and black-and-white photographs. The 2005 edition highlights Clint Eastwood's Million Dollar Baby , which won four Academy Awards, including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Actress in a Leading Role (Hilary Swank) and Best Actor in a Supporting Role for Morgan Freeman, his first Oscar. Martin Scorsese's The Aviator picked up five Academy Awards. Other notable films include Hotel Rwanda starring Academy Award nominees Don Cheadle and Sophie Okonedo. As always, Screen World 's outstanding features include: Full-page photos of the Academy Award-winning actors as well as photos of all acting nominees; A look at the year's most promising new screen personalities; Complete filmographies; A comprehensive index; and more.

The Sun Never Set Christopher M. Struck,2022-10-18 Jake Blaine is an American studying abroad in Bangkok, Thailand. When he notices beautiful Mischa Lemnova from across the lobby, he is instantly drawn to the coy and mysterious woman. As Jake chases after the woman of his dreams, he explores the city and nightlife with a group of international students from around the world as they all search for their own place in the sun. This pseudo-memoir of youth and love set against the colorful and provocative backdrop of Bangkok proves that it's not always about the destination, but the connections and encounters we experience along the way.

Vernacular Eloquence Peter Elbow,2012-01-02 Since the publication of his groundbreaking books Writing Without Teachers and Writing with Power, Peter Elbow has revolutionized how people think about writing. Now, in Vernacular Eloquence, he makes a vital new contribution to both practice and theory. The core idea is simple: we can enlist virtues from the language activity most people find easiest-speaking-for the language activity most people find hardest-writing. Speech, with its spontaneity, naturalness of expression, and fluidity of thought, has many overlooked linguistic and rhetorical merits. Through several easy to employ techniques, writers can marshal this wisdom of the tongue to produce stronger, clearer, more natural writing. This simple idea, it turns out, has deep repercussions. Our culture of literacy, Elbow argues, functions as though it were a plot against the spoken voice, the human body, vernacular language, and those without privilege-making it harder than necessary to write with comfort or power. Giving speech a central role in writing overturns many empty preconceptions. It causes readers to think critically about the relationship between speech, writing, and our notion of literacy. Developing the political implications behind Elbow's previous books, Vernacular Eloquence makes a compelling case that strengthening writing and democratizing it go hand in hand.

Versus America Chris Henson,2016-12-05 Mark Binmore proves that being an author can be modern, ecstatic, flippant and funny but also serious and intelligent. Although frequently seen as reserved and secretive, Versus America written with his co-operation, shadows Mark in unusually intimate detail as he works, relaxes, gossips, argues and every now and then, trying to make sense of what he does. Perceptive and amusing Versus America describes the inspirations, the rows, the confrontations with obsessive book readers and the earning and expenditure of vast sums of money. In this book, Chris Henson presents more than a documentary of a book tour - he traces Mark Binmore's wider history and shows his determination to be expressive and entertaining. It is an extraordinary story of what it means to be an author today.

The Job Pirate Brandon Christopher,2015-02-19 From the porn magazine to the moving truck to the dark sewers of California, Brandon Christopher's journey in the American job market is not only absurd, but also full of wit and profound observations. He steps out from behind the driver's wheel, the cash register, and the office desk to record the lighter and darker sides of humanity in the workplace. Christopher's tale makes even the most mundane job seem fascinating and the most exciting career appear hum-drum and hollow. The Job Pirate strips off the façade of the average employee to see what is hidden underneath: "That new employee that you see hanging his vintage blazer onto the backrest of his swivel chair is me. My cubicle is right next to yours. I don't say much, I dine alone, I drink a lot of coffee, and I know my legal right to two cigarettes in an 8-hour workday. And yes, you were right, I'm not really the Marketing Strategist that I told the boss I was. But I'm sitting here in this cubicle, and the resume that got me this job is in my attaché case right beside me. It clearly states that I have more than enough experience to run this company's entire advertising department and I'll be here between three weeks and a year, so you better get used to the idea." Often hilarious and sometimes profound, Christopher's stories take us through the offices, department stores and kiosks of the West Coast. We ride along with him as he chauffeurs the famous, the dead and sometimes just their furniture. Christopher gives us an irreverent inside glimpse into the work life of the people we see everyday. Even though at times he exhibits moral ambiguity, we find ourselves rooting for him against all the odds because we can see our own struggles in his attempts to acclimate. We can all relate to this story of selling our soul to the company store and then buying it back for pennies on the dollar, just to have that one more day of freedom.

As Long as You Want Me Too Belyea,2000-12-01 The strong emotional impact that Chris, a bank computer worker, feels after learning about child abuse from touring a children's residential agency, convinces him to leave his profession to become a full-time volunteer in a therapeutic school for emotionally disturbed children. The only drawback to Charles' choice of vocational change is a total absence of teaching experience or any prior work with children whatsoever. Despite this huge obstacle, Charles decides that if he volunteers long enough, he'll certainly learn enough to eventually be accepted as a professional teaching assistant. Soon however, his delusion becomes evident in the misconceptions that he and most all people have about the horrible effects of child abuse and the great difficulty of how to treat these effects. Ultimately Charles discovers that humor and humility are his best allies in the struggle to be accepted in this totally alien field of work.

Rightsizing Chris Bergman,2014-03-16 What if everything you knew was wrong?This surprisingly lighthearted fictional memoir is the story of "The time when we thought we were rich."If you've been around for the last decade, your story is probably in here.Richard Neaumeau's memoir contains elements of stories the author has gathered over the last few years from many people -- possibly including you or someone you know.Humorous, affectionate, and even instructive, Rightsizing is a fictional biography of the last decade.Rich wants what every young executive wants: a great job, a fabulous wife who happens to like him, a big, beautiful home -- all the material rewards of a corporate life well lived.One Friday afternoon, everything changes. Soon Rich finds himself making life-altering moves that he thought were only for One Percenters. With his loving wife Joni at his side, Rich sets out to build real wealth -- not just a good salary, but a life plan that will achieve his ambitions.When the economy heads south, and the corporate climate changes, suddenly Rich finds that everything he always believed is at least open for review -- if not just plain wrong.

Lonely Hearts and Casualties Chris Broderick,1990

ALT DIS Christopher L. Schroeder,Helen Fox,Patricia Bizzell,2002 Patricia Bizzell has argued that teachers of composition, if they are going to prepare students for success in other classrooms and other contexts, cannot afford to ignore alternative forms of discourse that are appearing now in the academy. This edited collection of original essays both discusses and at times exemplifies extraordinary examples of just such alternatives--discourses that embody new and different forms of intellectual work Together, their writings pose and answer some intriguing questions about the: use of nonstandard discourse to illustrate unconventional forms of intellectual work role of nonstandard discourse in scholarship from disciplines across the curriculum theoretical complexities of discourses defined as alternative, hybrid, mixed, or constructed relationships among communities, discourses, and linguistic standards new conditions in composition classrooms made up of more students of English as a foreign language and students using non-standard dialects teacher-student relationships within the context of alternative forms of intellectual work. Using unconventional structures and formats while acknowledging new modes and methods, this provocative volume argues eloquently for inclusion of a broader range of expression in academic writing.

But Enough About You Christopher Buckley,2014 An irreverent selection of essays by the best-selling author of Wry Martinis traces his literary friendships, family experiences and travels in such entries as How to Teach Your Four-Year-Old to Ski, A Short History of the Bug Zapper and The Art of Sacking.

Writing Environments Sidney I. Dobrin,Christopher J. Keller,2012-02-01 Writing Environments addresses the intersections between writing and nature through interviews with some of America's leading environmental writers. The interviews are followed by critical responses from writing scholars. This diverse range of voices speaks lucidly and captivantly about topics such as place, writing, teaching, politics, race, and culture, and how these overlap in many complex ways.--BOOK JACKET.Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America, Inc. California, Here I Am Christopher Wood,2004-12 California, here I am is a funny and shrewd Hollywood novel that takes us into the movie making scene: its hype, its glamour and its ruthlessness. At the same time, it chronicles a son's relationship with his father, as they wreak their own route through Beverley Hills, Santa Barbara, Sun Valley and eventually end up at a strange Caribbean island. It is a humorous but also moving story. The author, himself a Hollywood insider, gives some powerful insights into the ways and wiles of the industry and its protagonists.

Covina Swept Away Christopher S. Chenault,2012-09-11 Covina, Swept Away By Christopher S. Chenault, M. D. A number of towns in the Midwest and South have changed little over the last one hundred years. It is possible to return to ones hometown and see the town and many old landmarks little changed. This is not at all true of most of the towns of Southern California. Many areas of Southern California have been transformed from agricultural land to land for shopping centers and tract home over the past sixty years. The San Gabriel valley, east of Los Angeles, was the largest exporter of citrus fruit in the world in the 1930s and 1940s and had a hundred years history of agricultural use. In a period of fifteen years, 1950 to the mid-1960s, all of those vast acres of serene rural life were swept away in that wave of humanity that arrived after WW II to occupy the space for jobs, recreation, and raising families. There is now almost nothing left of that serenity. As a child in the 1940s and a teenager in the 1950s, I watched as this transformation progressed. We played hopscotch, marbles, and danced to the Mexican Hat Dance during grade school. We modified cars, went to the Sugar Bowl for sodas, and danced to Big Band sounds and Rock and Roll in high school. We watched drag races on Gladstone Avenue and at the Pomona drag strip. In poodle skirts and saddle shoes or corduroys and loafers, we live the 1950s in the residual of small town, agricultural Covina and witnessed a community go from one high school and two grammar schools in 1950 to add twenty-three new schools by the early 1960s. I have attempted to describe those years of tranquility, document our activities, and illustrated the varied attractions that would draw a family to that area. We were fortunate enough to experience swimming in the cool pacific, take trips to Arrowhead, Sequoia, and Kings Canyon, camp with the scouts at Cherry Cove on Catalina Island, Ski on Mount Baldy and go with groups of kids to Big Bear and the new Disneyland. We also endured the blackouts in Santa Barbara during WW II and sugar rations collected at the City Hall In an autobiographical format, I have presented the move of my family to California and included the stories of families of my schoolmates whose ancestors immigrated to Southern California. And I have documented the activities of the time to give flavor to the area during this period that was to be the end of the one hundred year agricultural use of the land.
