Excelsior Overshot MC Marshall,2022-02-13 Kyle Brent invented something that would make every sound, every spoken word, and every whisper, his to own. Imagine what you could learn by listening to history speak and to every secret mentioned. And to be haunted by those you love who've passed on or to be tempted to listen to long-lost, hidden money pried from dead secrets or even buried wealth belonging to the living who can still bite. It has Drug Cartels in it, Jesse James the outlaw standing on where Fort Lenoard Wood would be, stolen rare expensive baseball cards, Stephen Hawking, The Hadron Collider being built in reverse, Professor Einstein commenting on having pizza, bizarre blueprints found in some dope and weapons filled Taliban/Al Qaeda cave in Afghanistan shortly after 9/11, the Iraq War, Love, Death, Trauma, hauntings, PTSD, an invention that can let you listen to anything anyone ever said and any sound ever made, like a tree falling in a forest 900,000 years ago . . . and people want this thing and are willing to do anything to get their hands on anything that lets them hear anything you or anyone ever said like your secretes, combinations, passwords, private talks with your doctor, recipes, sports/stock strategy, politics, the talk of generals, rebels plotting, the cartel's competition . . . and it can save the life of a young Cherokee woman right after a bad car crash in the middle of the sticks away from any witnesses to save her, etc.
