A Second Lease of Life Madeleine Lüthi, 2009-06-01 It is in Australia while on tour with the band that Phillip meets Kid and on an old-fashioned impulse of love at first sight he takes her to the States and marries her it turns out to be a union made in heaven. Little did he know that Kid would soon be instrumental in re-uniting him with his long lost, shunned and - unadmitted to himself feared brother. Kids home-made religion of Nature as the life-giver, her philosophy of making the most out of life by living one day at the time, her wisdom of having faith in the greatness and goodness of people and her instinctive knowledge of the importance of forgiving - even though unknown even to herself proves to become the driving force Phillip needs to start reconsidering a decision made in his dim youth and never given an opportunity to be reassessed. Brother David had been sent to fight a war he didn't understand; against an enemy he did not recognize. He came back in one piece, possibly thanks to his superlative skills in karate fighting, but back in his home country he spends years running from the police and from the law - years of confusion, frustration and despair. And then ... on his release from jail after a lengthy sentence he finds his brother and sister-in-law waiting for him with open arms, their hearts filled with optimism, courage and love.

Leah's Dream Florence Joseph Paul, 2000-11-01 Florence Joseph Paul is a native New Yorker who has lived in Orange County, California for over thirty-nine years. She wrote about whatever interested her, for her own enjoyment for many years. In 1975 she showed an article on China (she and her husband with two others were practically the first visitors after President Nixon opened the doors to tourism in the Peoples Republic of China) to an editor, who published it in three parts for three days, in the newspaper. It was the first for her, and it gave her the confidence to continue to try to have material published. She became very successful, and has been published internationally in fifty-five magazines, plus many newspapers. To her credit she has also had two books published---He Never Pulled The Trigger, a bio on her late husband, as well as an Autobiography. Florence is a proud mother, grand-mother, and great grand-mother, award winner from the California Press Women, public speaker, free-lance writer, interviewer, and community activist. She is also the proud recipient of a bronze plaque in her name which stands in a linear park. Florence and Les, her late husband, have done a great deal of traveling, the entire world available to them. She has written a book I See The World which she has not as yet had published. She now travels by herself, to cover the areas she did not go to with Les. In a New York school, there is a large kitchen for the children to have their lunch, which everyone called Mrs. Pauls Kitchen, for the amount of effort it took on her part to have it made. When asked by the Board of Estimate representative why she wanted an enclosed kitchen built in such an old school, she replied, Sir, the school may be old, but our children are very young. She got the kitchen. All the articles Florence has written are nonfiction, but her new books are both fiction, one a sequel to the other. Leahs Dream is about the daughter of the woman Peg in Peg--- A Dream Betrayed. On the walls of her office, hang, along with awards, etc. permanized copies of letters from Queen Margarete of Denmark, and one from the King of Spain. Les had surprised her with the permanized framing. She has a wonderful family, not only her immediate, but also her extended family of friends and relatives. She is grateful to the public for her success. Florence J. Paul has been repeatedly told she is eternally youthful.

Not a True Story Rebecca Bricker, 2014-08-11 The story of Jenna begins on a train ride from Florence to Rome. She's 58, divorced, with a son in college. She has no permanent address. She's been traveling much of her life and-like many middle-aged women-has come to Italy to find la dolce vita and renewal. And perhaps, a lover. Why not? For starters, there's a masseur at a Tuscan villa-hotel, who...well, you'll see. (This story has some racy bits-just so you know.) As Jenna writes about her travels and shares her stories, she comes to realize how stuck and alone many women feel. The question they ask of her: How do you find the path to the life you want? In this novel (or not), author Rebecca Bricker expands on her 2011 memoir Tales from Tavanti: An American Woman's Mid-Life Adventure in Italy, with humor and candor. The underlying truth of Not a True Story is known to every woman who has dealt with heartache in the face of divorce, an empty nest, illness, the failing health of parents, the death of loved ones-and the longing to find love again. As Not a True Story unfolds, Jenna grapples with these issues, knowing that time is marching on. In her solo journey, she experiences a cathartic reckoning that transcends loss, missed opportunity and unmet expectations-and discovers a love that bloomed in her old backyard.

Tradition and Innovation in Folk Literature Wolfgang Mieder,2015-08-11 In this book, first published in 1987, Wolfgang Mieder follows the intriguing trail of some of the best known pieces of folk literature, tracing them from their roots to modern uses in advertising, journalism, politics, cartoons, and poetry. He reveals both the remarkable adaptability of these tales and how each variation reflects cultural and historical changes. Fairy tales, legends, folk songs, riddles, nursery rhymes, and proverbs are passed from generation to generation, changing both in form and meaning with each use. This book will be of interest to students of literature.

Encyclopedia of Twentieth-Century Photography, 3-Volume Set Lynne Warren,2005-11-15 The Encyclopedia of Twentieth-Century Photography explores the vast international scope of twentieth-century photography and explains that history with a wide-ranging, interdisciplinary manner. This unique approach covers the aesthetic history of photography as an evolving art and documentary form, while also recognizing it as a developing technology and cultural force. This Encyclopedia presents the important developments, movements, photographers, photographic institutions, and theoretical aspects of the field along with information about equipment, techniques, and practical applications of photography. To bring this history alive for the reader, the set is illustrated in black and white throughout, and each volume contains a color plate section. A useful glossary of terms is also included.

China's Foreign Policy Andrea Benvenuti,Chien-Peng Chung,Nicholas Khoo,Andrew Tan,2022-05-16 This volume explains China's foreign policy from the perspective of its historical recovery after 1949 and the country's subsequent rise as a great power, including its transformation into a global power. It also illuminates how China has, in tandem with its rise, developed an increasing array of political, economic, 'sharp power' and military capabilities that is helping it to further its increasingly expansive foreign policy objectives. The volume examines two key questions: What have been the implications of China's rise for its foreign policy? And how has an increasingly powerful and confident China used a range of foreign policy instruments to pursue its expanding national interests in Asia and beyond? The volume is divided into three parts, covering the conceptualization and drivers of China's foreign policy, China's relations with the world, and the instruments of China's foreign policy, namely its economic power, military capabilities and its 'sharp power' manipulation of information and relationships. It will be of interest to academics, students and researchers interested in understanding China's role in world politics.
