Coming Home George Davis,2012-06-01 This is the 40th Anniversary Edition of the 1972 novel upon which the Academy Award-winning, Jane Fonda, Vietnam War film of the same name was loosely based. It has maintained a following over the years, in part, because it captures the physical and psychological landscape of the war zone and home front during the Vietnam War. In the Introduction to an edition published 10 years later, Mel Watkins of the New York Times Book Review wrote: "George Davis wrote a novel that stripped away the transient political pieties with which the issue of Vietnam was too often laden and provided a deeper. . . more lasting revelation" In the Book Review, Peter Rand called it "our war novel." In The Nation, Jerry Bryant wrote: "this is one of the few novels I have read recently in which I have faintly perceived a subliminal stirring. I wonder what George Davis will produce next." Davis has authored other books and much journalism in a style which he calls "holistic realism," the idea that we have not only a physical but a spiritual existence. In his works, readers experience the movement of spirits as "subliminal stirring." The experience began in this landmark action novel that is alive now as it was 40 years ago.

The Woman Is the Glory of the Man George Davis, 2012-07 Are we years away from the end of time, or perhaps months? The prophetic signs of this world clearly indicate the second coming of Christ. As in the days of Noah, the marriages of the day are an indicator of this event. When God created the marriage institution, He installed spiritual roles for the man and woman. When these roles would reverse themselves, intervention from God always followed. This has been an established pattern all through the Bible. It first manifested with Adam and Eve in the garden. It followed the downfall of the sons of God right before the flood. And it brought judgment to Solomon shortly after he began to worship the gods of his wives. The New Testament is full of warnings to the churches about following the spiritual authority given to the man and woman. These warnings are basically ignored today. The marriage relationship, when spiritually understood, clearly prophesies that we will experience the end times during our lifetime.

A Memorial of the Hon. N. C. Chamber of Commerce Wilmington, 2015-06-12 Excerpt from A Memorial of the Hon.: George Davis, Born in New Hanover County, North Carolina, March 1st, 1820 Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable memorial and record of our late distinguished and venerated citizen, the Honorable George Davis, approached the task-assigned them with a profound sense of their own inadequacy to offer anything worthy of that noble life, but with an earnest desire to add to all the true and beautiful things that have been said of him some memorial that would more fully set forth the labors and achievements of the foremost citizen of our Cape Fear section. To do this we have thought nothing could be more appropriate than a free use of his own writings and the testimony of his contemporaries at the various periods of his life - what he said, what he wrote and what he did, obtaining thus a clearer conception and reminder of his high morality, his great ability and his rare eloquence. We are also moved to this course by the hope that it may inspire the rising generation with a desire to study his career, and in a grateful people the resolve to rescue from oblivion his scattered compositions. Nearly fifty years ago, a gifted young orator, who had from boyhood held the admiration and confidence of his fellow-citizens of Wilmington, appeared before a large assembly in the old Presbyterian church on Front street, and said: He who has watched the sun in its bright course through the firmament and seen it gradually decline until it went down in darkness beneath the horizon, may turn from the contemplation with no feelings of sorrow or regret, for he knows that the period of its absence is mercifully ordained as a season of necessary repose to him and to all, and that the morrow will restore its beams to revive and reanimate all nature.
