A Plethora of Emotions Tanu Bura, Emotions are in charge of so much in our life. Emotions are elusive at the same time as they are the means by which we transmit our deepest feelings to people around us. We couldn't live without them, but we rarely think about how many there are. Emotions, and how we experience and express them, can be blatant or surprisingly subtle. The basic emotions, however many there may be, serve as the foundation for the more complex and subtle emotions that make up the human experience. We are all affected by emotions. It's one of the characteristics that distinguishes us as human beings. Anger, despair, fear, joy, and love are all feelings that almost everyone has experienced at some point in their lives. "A Plethora of Emotions" is a collection of poetry and prosed by 31 writers that revolves around emotions.

Nature Inspired Optimization for Electrical Power System Manjaree Pandit,Hari Mohan Dubey,Jagdish Chand Bansal,2020-04-07 This book presents a wide range of optimization methods and their applications to various electrical power system problems such as economical load dispatch, demand supply management in microgrids, levelized energy pricing, load frequency control and congestion management, and reactive power management in radial distribution systems. Problems related to electrical power systems are often highly complex due to the massive dimensions, nonlinearity, non-convexity and discontinuity associated with objective functions. These systems also have a large number of equality and inequality constraints, which give rise to optimization problems that are difficult to solve using classical numerical methods. In this regard, nature inspired optimization algorithms offer an effective alternative, due to their ease of use, population-based parallel search mechanism, non-dependence on the nature of the problem, and ability to accommodate non-differentiable, non-convex problems. The analytical model of nature inspired techniques mimics the natural behaviors and intelligence of life forms. These techniques are mainly based on evolution, swarm intelligence, ecology, human intelligence and physical science.
