Lia, Obsolete Elizabeth Barrett,2023-05-05 Lia was constructed for a single purpose: to assist and serve their creator, Jacinta. But when a sudden tragedy leaves them alone for good, everything changes. They cannot function without a purpose. Lia's best hope for a new direction lies in a place far away, a great city by the sea. But the road there is long and difficult, and the desert is a terrifying place to travel. Will Lia be able to brave the journey? This short novella explores what it means to be a purposeful creature without any purpose. Exciting, funny, and heartwarming, Lia, Obsolete is an adventure that all humans can enjoy.

Reaching Halfway to Heaven Lori Fisher Peelen,2023 When I was a kid playing in the forest, I stuck my arm into the hollow of a tree and discovered a diary inside, which led me to learn the story of an early California logging pioneer. Reaching Halfway to Heaven is the true story of a long-ago boy who dreamed of becoming a botanist, but, when hard times hit his family, had to leave school to help support them. In the north woods of California, the most reliable work available was logging-- which meant cutting down the trees he so loved. Still, dreams have a way of finding their way, in spite of daunting setbacks. Wade became a successful lumberman, an early conservationist, and a self-taught botanist, creating a woodland garden that people still visit today. Learn about early logging practices in California, the importance of redwood trees to our environment, and the Sturgeon's Mill Living History museum and gardens in Sonoma County, California. Stunning illustrations by Kathy Goetzel bring this true story to life. Reaching Halfway to Heaven is a great choice for elementary school unit studies, encompassing history, life science and conservation themes, as well as encouraging kids of all ages to cherish their dreams.--<https://www.streamriffs.com/books/p/reaching-halfway-to-heaven>

Exploring Buried Buxton David M. Gradwohl,Nancy M. Osborn,1990-10 Few sources before have dealt with the archaeology of African American settlements outside the Atlantic seaboard and the southern states. This book describes in detail the archaeological investigations conducted at the town site of Buxton, Iowa, a coal mining community inhabited by a significantly large population of blacks between 1900 and 1925. David Gradwohl and Nancy Osborn present the archaeology of Buxton from “the group up” to articulate the material remains with the data acquired from archival studies and oral history interviews. They also examine the broader significance of the Buxton experience in terms of those who lived there and their children and grandchildren who have heard about Buxton all their lives.

Feeder Patrick Weekes,2019-03-05 A monster-hunter teams up with super-powered teens to protect her brother in this fast-paced adventure novel that’s X-Men meets Men in Black. Lori Fisher hunts monsters. Not with a sword or a gun, but with an interdimensional creature called Handler. Together they take down “feeders”—aliens who prey on mankind. When Lori touches a feeder, Handler’s impossibly large jaws appear and drag the beast into another dimension. It’s a living—or was, until a job for the Lake Foundation goes wrong, and Lori stumbles across the Nix, a group of mutant teenagers held captive on the docks. Now the Lake Foundation is hunting Lori, and if they find Lori, they find Ben, the brother Lori would do anything to protect. There’s only one thing to do: strike first. Lori teams up with the Nix to take on Lake, and to discover why the Nix were kidnapped in the first place. But as she watches their powers unfold, Lori realizes the Nix are nothing like her. She has no powers. She has...Handler. Maybe she’s not the monster hunter after all. Maybe she’s just the bait.
