Sport and Physical Activity across the Lifespan Rylee A. Dionigi, Michael Gard, 2017-11-27 This edited collection problematizes trajectories of health promotion across the lifespan. It provides a distinctive critical social science perspective of the various directions taken by dominant policies in their approach to promoting sport for all ages. It offers an array of theoretical and methodologically diverse perspectives on this topic, and highlights the intersections between different life stages and social, economic and cultural factors in the developed world, including class, gender, ability, family dynamics and/or race. Sport and Physical Activity across the Lifespan critically explores dominant policies of age-focussed sport promotion in order to highlight its implications within the context of particular life stages as they intersect with social, cultural and economic factors. This includes an examination of organised sport for pre-schoolers; 'at-risk' youth sport programmes; and the creation of sporting sub-cultures within the mid-life 'market'. This book will be of interest to those wanting to learn more about how age and life stages affect the way people think about and participate in sport, and to better understand the impacts of sport across the lifespan.

The Millers G C Chase , 2023-11-11 The granddaughter of a woman who made your life a misery goes missing, then asks for your help. What do you do? When journalist Audrey Lord is asked by her nemesis Sharon Miller to help find who kidnapped her beloved granddaughter, she is shocked and wary. Sharon drove her out of Bennington two decades earlier and helping her goes against the grain. But a child is missing, and the clock is ticking. Child abductions were often by a disgruntled family member, but the Millers had enemies. The list of potential suspects was long, wide and went back decades. Even Audrey had a motive. As Audrey finds herself drawn further into Sharon's murky world, she doesn't know who to trust. Is Sharon a grieving grandmother or a leopard that never truly changed her spots?

Lifestyle Sports and Identities Tyler Dupont, Becky Beal, 2021-09-30 This book examines how different stages of adult life affect participation in lifestyle sports and in the construction of identity. Drawing on multi-disciplinary perspectives, it explores how gender, sexuality, ethnicity, and location, in conjunction with age and stage in career, affect lifestyle sport practices and meanings. Tracing engagement with lifestyle sport across the lifecourse, from young adult to older age, the book examines the concepts of authenticity and identity in subcultural and alternative sports, exploring how individuals develop lifestyle sport identities, maintain authentic identities, and how they manage those identities as older adults. It presents a range of fascinating, cutting-edge case studies from around the world, covering sports as diverse as climbing, surfing, mountain biking, skateboarding and roller derby, and considers key contemporary issues such as professionalisation, sports labor, and digital technology. It also highlights political tensions and shifts that shape the identities of lifestyle sport communities. This is essential reading for anybody with a serious interest in alternative or lifestyle sports, the relationships between sport and wider society, or the development of subcultures and cultural identity.

The Coral Island Robert Michael Ballantyne, 196?

Freakin' Angel Kimberly Rundell, 2022-03-21 Curled up in a tight ball with her small back wedged in a corner, illuminated only by a thin sliver of crescent moon light, twelve-year-old Rylee Scott realized without a doubt that her nightmare would never end. Under the cover of darkness, no matter how much she begged and cried, she knew evil would always come through her bedroom door and steal another piece of her soul. Suddenly startled into silence, she stopped rocking and lifted her head to listen. Panic rose up and threatened to close her throat. All she could hear was the sound of her own shallow breathing and her heart quickening in her chest. She held her breath and listened intently, her wide terrified blue eyes darting back and forth. A piercing scream broke the silence as the door once again slid open to reveal a shadow looming in the moonlit darkness.
