Tales from the Yoga Studio Rain Mitchell, 2010-12-28 A sparkling new series introducing five unforgettable women who flock to yoga at turning points in their lives and find the gift of lasting friendship. The yoga studio is where daily cares are set aside, mats are unfurled, and physical exertion leads to well-being, renewal, and friendship. An aggressively expanding chain of Los Angeles yoga experience centers, has Lee and her extraordinary teaching abilities in its sights. They woo her with a lucrative contract, a trademarked name for her classes, and a place for her handsome musician husband. But accepting the contract means abandoning the students at the homey studio Lee runs in L.A.'s Silver Lake district- and leaving behind four women whose friendships are suddenly more important to her than retirement benefits and a salary increase. Tales from the Yoga Studio is an insider's look at the current obsession with yoga, told with enough humor, wit, and warmth to charm and delight readers, whether or not they've ever done a Downward Dog.

The Riverside Dance Studio Nicole Ellis, 2023-06-16 A new year, a new life — or is it just a new set of problems? Sam is ready to move past everything she's lost over the past six months. Ringing in the New Year with her co-workers at Bayside Prep is a great way to start. Or rather it would be if her job and living situation weren't temporary. The new life she's carefully built is about to crumble around her. Is she ready for another big change? A long distance marriage wasn't in Libby's version of happily ever after, but she's making the best of it and keeping all the plates spinning in the air, same as she's always done. Except, between parenting their four kids, her job at the catering company, and her family's upcoming move, she's beyond exhausted. Something has to give. Everyone thinks Jessa is in Willa Bay to visit her brother Shawn and meet her grandmother Celia for the first time. But a simple vacation and family reunion isn't the only reason she's on leave from the army. Andrew has spent the last few years focused on his role as Assistant Headmaster at Bayside Prep. He excels at his role, but it's come at a cost to his family relationships and his non-existent personal life. If he continues on this way, his future may not be as bright as he's hoped. Debbie is thrilled — and terrified — that it's almost time for the fundraiser she's been planning since last summer. With much of her attention on the event, she's finding it difficult to support her daughters as they work through the issues in their own lives. Can she pull off a successful fundraiser and still make time for her family? It's a fresh start for everyone in Willa Bay, but how will they overcome the uncertainties and challenges that life has thrown in their paths?

Hollywood Studios Ethan Moroden, 1990-01-01

Studio Life Rob Easterla, 2020-11-13 Although established over a hundred years ago, Hollywood movie studios still present themselves with a utilitarian modesty despite the star-spangled hype of their publicity machines. For employees, studio life offers a straightforward existence that overflows with all the tangible qualities of small-town America. Bicycles float cheerful worker bees to the mill and mailroom. At noon, carpenters and secretaries unite in the commissary where table-hopping percolates between studio hairdressers and studio brass. In a volume of personal essays and photographs, Rob Easterla details his ascent from nowhere to somebody in the Hollywood landscape as he clawed his way to the middle while crossing paths with celebrities such as James Spader, Debbie Reynolds, and Julie Andrews. While leading others into the trenches at Paramount Pictures, NBC, and Twentieth Century Fox, Easterla reveals the magic and horror of studio life from 1980 to 2011 as he labored within a world where normal rules did not apply and thick-skinned, fearless studio folk upheld a can-do attitude, even during the most challenging times. Through it all, Easterla reminds us that making movies is a singular art form that recruits only the most passionate, eager dreamers to participate in the process. Studio Life is a volume of personal essays that reveal a man's escapades as he galloped onto a Paramount Pictures lot in the 1980s and began an unforgettable adventure.

Night Studio Musa Mayer, 1990 Philip Guston (1913-1980) was driven, sustained, and consumed by art. His style ranged from the social realism of his WPA murals through his abstract expressionist canvasses of the 1950s and 1960s (wh

Hollywood Art Beverly Heisner, 1990 The heyday of Hollywood studio art departments was in the 1930s and 40s when strong art directors like Cedric Gibbons and Hans Dreier brought together more artists and artisans under one roof working on the same projects than any other enterprise in the history of modern American art.

The Studio Reader Mary Jane Jacob, Michelle Grabner, 2010-06-01 The image of a tortured genius working in near isolation has long dominated our conceptions of the artist's studio. Examples abound: think Jackson Pollock dripping resin on a cicada carcass in his shed in the Hamptons. But times have changed; ever since Andy Warhol declared his art space a “factory,” artists have begun to envision themselves as the leaders of production teams, and their sense of what it means to be in the studio has altered just as dramatically as their practices. The Studio Reader pulls back the curtain from the art world to reveal the real activities behind artistic production. What does it mean to be in the studio? What is the space of the studio in the artist’s practice? How do studios help artists envision their agency and, beyond that, their own lives? This forward-thinking anthology features an all-star array of contributors, ranging from Svetlana Alpers, Bruce Nauman, and Robert Storr to Daniel Buren, Carolee Schneemann, and Buzz Spector, each of whom locates the studio both spatially and conceptually—at the center of an art world that careens across institutions, markets, and disciplines. A companion for anyone engaged with the spectacular sites of art at its making, The Studio Reader reconsiders this crucial space as an actual way of being that illuminates our understanding of both artists and the world they inhabit.

The Worlds of Back to the Future Sorcha Ní Fhlainn, 2010-12-14
A critical examination of the cultural, cinematic, and historical contexts of the Back to the Future trilogy, this book provides a multi-focal representation of the trilogy from several interdisciplinary fields, including philosophy, literature, music, pop culture, and media and gender studies. Topics include sexual symbolism in the trilogy and the oedipal plotting of the first film; nostalgia and the suburban dream in the cultural climate of the 1980s; generic play and performance throughout the trilogy; the emotional and narrative force provided by the films’ renowned musical scores; the trilogy’s post-modern references and allusions to the Western genre; female representations across the trilogy; and the Lacanian philosophical constructs in the characterizations of Doc Brown and George and Marty McFly.

New York Studio Conversations Stephanie Buhmann, 2018

The Studio Jens Hoffmann, 2012-03-02 The evolution of studio—and “post-studio”—practice over the last half century. With the emergence of conceptual art in the mid-1960s, the traditional notion of the studio became at least partly obsolete. Other sites emerged for the generation of art, leading to the idea of “post-studio practice.” But the studio never went away; it was continually reinvented in response to new realities. This collection, expanding on current critical interest in issues of production and situation, looks at the evolution of studio—and “post-studio”—practice over the last half century. In recent decades many artists have turned their studios into offices from which they organize a multiplicity of operations and interactions. Others use the studio as a quasi-exhibition space, or work on a laptop computer—mobile, flexible, and ready to follow the next commission. Among the topics surveyed here are the changing portrayal and experience of the artist's role since 1960; the diversity of current studio and post-studio practice; the critical strategies of artists who have used the studio situation as the subject or point of origin for their work; the insights to be gained from archival studio projects; and the expanded field of production that arises from responding to new conditions in the world outside the studio. The essays and artists' statements in this volume explore these questions with a focus on examining the studio's transition from a workshop for physical production to a space with potential for multiple forms of creation and participation.

MOONGATE STUDIOS Geo and Jan Francis Moongate

Studios, 2021-11-30 MOONGATE STUDIOS : Geo and Jan Francis (Sculpting Dreams into Reality), is an extraordinary tale of one creative couple who has dreamed the dream, walked the walk and now talks the talk in this autobiographical photographic essay. Geo and Jan's young lives are briefly explored, their marriage and their life together as creatives. The story moves through their several craft and art genres, their years of mudbrick owner-building, their collaborative community art projects, their fine art status and finally celebrates their international travel, exhibitions, awards and recognition. Beautifully complemented by the power of their own photographed catalogued paintings, drawings and sculpture throughout the 280+ pages, Geo and Jan's narrative is insightfully supported by their contributing colleagues and friends. This book also has a significant historic relevance as it references 70+ years of Geo and Jan's work and life experience through its story telling, archived newspaper cuttings and photographs. As such, it is a valuable resource for the creative and broader communities and a sound promotional tool for their regional arts industry.

Bianchi's photographs constitute a record of the natural grace, wit, friendship and imagination of the male nude that transcends his physical beauty, and speaks to a reality rarely reported in art. 88 duotone photographs.
