Simulation of Decelerating Landing Approaches on an Externally Blown Flap STOL Transport Airplane
William D. Grantham, Luat T. Nguyen, Perry L. Deal, 1974 A fixed-base simulator program was conducted to define the problems and methods for solution associated with performing decelerating landing approaches on a representative STOL transport having a high wing and equipped with an external-flow jet flap in combination with four high-bypass-ratio fan-jet engines. Real-time digital simulation techniques were used. The computer was programmed with equations of motion for six degrees of freedom and the aerodynamic inputs were based on measured wind-tunnel data. The pilot's task was to capture the localizer and the glide slope and to maintain them as closely as possible while decelerating from an initial airspeed of 140 knots to a final airspeed of 75 knots, while under IFR conditions.

We're the Weird Aliens Mara Lynn Johnstone, Jules Blymoor, Lauren Glover, Jennifer Lee Rossman, S. Park, Maree Brittenford, Harrison Salzman, M. Winslett, Jay Mendell, Jane Colon-Bonet, Thaís Polegato de Sousa, Liz A. Vogel, E. A. Greene, K. B. Elijah, Janna Kaiser, Chris Bannor, K. Winter Walker-van Aalst, Garrett Gantt, annie nguyen, Elizabeth A. . Allen, Olivia Gordon, Diana van der Schouw, Kit Harding, Charles D. Perry, Maggie Maxwell, Manuel Royal, Dara Brophy, Bill Rogers, 2020-12-18 In science fiction, humans are usually boring compared to other spacefaring races: small, weak, with no claws or tentacles, and no special abilities to speak of. If we're lucky, humans have an indomitable spirit when the chips are down. Not much more than that. But what if they weren't? What if humans were the ones who all the other aliens talked about, in tones of appreciation, fear, or utter confusion? What if humans weren't the boring ones, but the weirdest things among the stars? 28 authors explore some of the many ways that we can be the talk of the cosmos.

Short Girls Bich Minh Nguyen,2010-06-29 Winner of an American Book Award Named one of the Best Books of the Year by Library Journal A novel about two Vietnamese-American sisters, longtime rivals, growing closer as they grapple with their upbringing, their present circumstances and their shortcomings (Kirkus Reviews) Called A writer to watch, a tremendous talent by the Chicago Tribune, Bich Minh Nguyen makes her fiction debut with the deeply moving and entertaining story of two Vietnamese sisters. Aside from their petite stature, Van and Linny Luong couldn't be more different. Beautiful, fashionable Linny lives in Chicago and has drifted into an affair with a married man. When Van's picture-perfect marriage collapses and Linny finds herself grappling to escape her dead-end life, the long-estranged sisters are unable to confide in one another-until their eccentric inventor father calls them back home to the Vietnamese American community they fled long ago.

The Founder Seeds Cong Nguyen,Jarone Macklin-Page,2020-06-09 DISCOVER THE MYSTERY AND MAGIC, OF THE FOUNDER SEEDS AWAKENING Unravel the thrilling journey of John Sparks, as he becomes the first human since the Golden Age of Magic, to discover Earth's hidden past, and the truth about The Founder Seeds of light. Revealing a story so epic and dangerous in scale, that it rewrites the very creation of the universe, and redefines humankind's role across the stars. It's not the truth that sets you free, It's the lie that keeps you safe! REVIEWS Not my normal genre of book but it's definitely a page-turner, I laughed, cried and screamed out loud. Fantastic read and highly recommended ★★★★★ It has a feel that reminds me of The Hitchhikers Guide to the galaxy ★★★★★ What an achievement for a debut author, definitely recommend this to anyone that loves a good mystery ★★★★★ The first part of the book had me in stitches, the second part had me in awe, and the final part was just so raw, and don't even get me started on the plot twists, Amazing ★★★★★ Beautifully written story with an amazing magical world, fascinating characters, funny, easy to follow, unexpectedly emotional ★★★★★ ABOUT THE AUTHOR Jarone Macklin-Page has always been fascinated with bringing new worlds to life, with a particular focus on telling stories that challenge the way others see the world around them. Spending much of his early career, Acting and Directing, for stage, feature films and TV. Jarone quickly established himself with a reputation as a real up and comer. A feat that he was especially proud of, considering that his journey to become an actor, had involved living in care, getting expelled from school. But even though the odds were stacked against him, Jarone Macklin-Page was able to turn his life around and forge a path, few would've believed possible. Even establishing himself as a regular columnist for a magazine called Community Care. A magazine that tackled the big issues within the care sector, in an attempt to bring about change.

Keith's People Ellen Perry Berkeley, 2003 A remarkable literary feat. Written with verve, dry humor, excellent characterization, and political savvy, this murder mystery is, simultaneously, a searing indictment of Ho Chi Minh's Vietnam and the brutal police state that is his legacy. Erika Holzer, author of Eye for an Eye (a Paramount film); co-author of Aid and Comfort Jane Fonda in North Vietnam Original and inventive. It delivers clever plotting, a surprise ending, and a devastating blow to political correctness. Joshua Muravchik, a resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute; author most recently of Heaven on Earth: The Rise and Fall of Socialism Riveting and gripping. A great suspense story combined with a broad consideration of the political currents that divided America in the aftermath of the Vietnam war, currents that echo to the America of this very day and time. Ronald Radosh, co-author of The Rosenberg File; author of Commies: A Journey through the Old Left, the New Left and the Leftover Left Based equally on lingering controversy and on the latest historical research, this novel will bring you an understanding of the Vietnam war you've never had before. You'll also see its relevance to our newest war, on terrorism. Along the way you'll meet a manipulative sociopath of a type you've never encountered before. In New York City (Greenwich Village, the Upper West Side, Columbia University), also briefly in Vermont, you'll meet other memorable characters: a Pulitzer-winning newspaperwoman, a Gaviscon-chomping detective, a past-hugging activist, a sex-loving photography student, an idiom-twisting phlebotomist, an imagination-toting delivery boy, and more. A humdinger of a plot.

The Magic Fish Trung Le Nguyen, 2020-10-13 NAMED ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR by New York Public Library • Kirkus Reviews • Booklist • Publishers Weekly In this gorgeous debut graphic novel, fairy tales are the only way one boy can communicate with his Vietnamese immigrant parents. But how will he find the words to tell them that he's gay? A powerful read about family, identity and the enduring magic of stories. "One of the most astounding graphic novels of the year –Entertainment Weekly Tien and his mother may come from different cultures–she's an immigrant from Vietnam still struggling with English; he's been raised in America–but through the fairy tales he checks out from the local library, those differences are erased. But as much as Tien's mother's English continues to improve as he reads her tales of love, loss, and travel across distant shores, there's one conversation that still eludes him–how to come out to her and his father. Is there even a way to explain what he's going through in Vietnamese? And without a way to reveal his hidden self, how will his parents ever accept him? This beautifully illustrated graphic novel speaks to the complexity of family and how stories can bring us together even when we don't know the words. "A lyrical masterpiece." –BuzzFeed

The King Who Turned Into Stone and the Ladder to Heaven Nidila Nguyen, Nghiệp Nguyễn, 2006 When I was a young boy growing up in Alabama, I loved to read the humor of legendary outdoor story tellers, Corey Ford and Robert Roark. I could hardly wait for my monthly issue of Field & Stream magazine to arrive. Their humor kindled my lifelong love affair with fishing and hunting. However, in today's outdoor magazines and books, it's about the how to, where to, when to, with very little of the old time stories appearing. There are also those who'd do away with fishing and hunting entirely. I'm afraid that if this trend continues, hunters and anglers will become an endangered species and that within 30 to 40 years hunting and fishing as we know it will be obsolete. As a member of the outdoor writing fraternity, I just cannot stand idly by and let this happen. I must do my part to keep the storytelling alive. My purpose in writing this book is to help re-ignite classic outdoor humor, which has dwindled, not from lack of an audience, but because outdoor editors feel they must do the how to, etc. to survive. They can do both, tell a story that makes readers want to get out and do it, and also tell where it happened and how they did it. I will continue writing humorous outdoor stories, that tell of what went on during the trip, the humorous things that happened and the lessons learned. My goal is to pass them on to future generations. If you like entertaining and humorous true to life outdoor adventures, my book is for you. Hopefully, you'll pass it on to your children, so that they too might help carry the torch.
