The Reconstruction of Proto-Malayo-Javanic Bernd Nothofer,2012-12-11 The work is concerned with the reconstruction of the phonemes of Proto-Malayo-Javanic, the last proto-language which is directly continued by the Sundanese, Javanese, Malay, and Madurese. Part one contains a lexicostatistical calculation of the degrees of relationship among the four languages and a brief description of the phonology and morphophonemics of each language. Part two is devoted to the reconstruction of Proto-Malayo-Javanic phonemes. It shows inter alia that evidence from Malayo-Javanic languages requires the reconstruction of a number of Proto-Malayo-Javanic phonemes which hitherto have not been reconstructed for proto-languages of higher order or the proto-language of highest order, i.e. Proto-Austronesian. The appendix contains the basic vocabulary lists for the four languages, a map showing previously assumed language boundaries separating Sundanese, Jakarta Malay, Javanese and Madurese, and a revised map showing language boundaries as revealed in the course of the research, as well as Sundanese dialect maps. An index of the Proto-Malayo-Javanic reconstructions follows.

for all the women who thought they were Mad Zawe Ashton,2019-10-14 “they like to see us fall to slip on branches full of fruit we have not tasted” Lately, it's small things. Pop songs. The radio. Every day, anguish becomes madness. Call on your family. Call on the ancestors. Can they guide you home? “we are pearl and earth and root we know ourselves to be natural and complete carved from rock that floats but we should still be careful what we wish for some of us can sink in the upstream” for all the women who thought they were Mad is an urgent piece of theatre examining the myriad of forces that collide and conspire against women of colour in Britain today.

Incoherent Ramblings of a Mad Man David L. Horn Sr,2012-06 Steven Orr is gullible and transparent, easily manipulated and coerced into believing the impossible. He married out of his class and couldn't cope with the pressure of trying to prove his self worth. He was too preoccupied trying to demonstrate he could make money on his own. He did hear voices and believed others did the same. He develops an unholy alliance with Al Bates, a radio talk show host who creates an elaborate and deceptive scheme formed around the voices and the discovery of a vortex through which they were heard. Steven's narrative is taken from his personal journal and is call for support; even though he knew no one would read it. What is real is not necessarily true and what is true is not necessarily real. Did he find his answers and those for the other men or did he stumble into his own form of madness?
