George Ernest Bowman

Being Bold ,2015-05-01 In his early years, Sam shared his home in Brest-Litovsk, a thriving town in Poland, with grandparents and extended family. His childhood was steeped in tradition and ritual. Jewish prayer songs, morality tales told by his father, Jewish festivals and the Yiddish language forged the core of his identity and enduring sense of self. Sam was one of the fortunate few who managed to escape the Holocaust with his family. They found their way out of the darkness of Europe in the late 1930s, to arrive in Melbourne, Australia where they built a new life without fear and persecution. In many ways, the challenges Sam faced in his early life in Eastern Europe provided him with the resourcefulness and fortitude to endure the difficult years as an immigrant in a foreign country. The skills he learnt as a boy in the family's factories in Brest-Litovsk, watching and interacting with the workers, also provided the expertise and practical know-how that would eventually enable him to build a thriving business in Australia. Sam remembers in great detail the love and camaraderie of his Jewish family and community in Brest-Litovsk. In Being Bold, he also shares his warm memories of growing up in the vibrant Jewish hubs of Carlton and Brunswick during the Second World War and of the opportunity-filled post-war period when he met Raymonde, the love of his life.

Minden Perserverance and Pride John A. Agan,2002-09-25 The beautiful historic town of Minden is tucked up in the pine-filled hills of northern Louisiana. Established by Charles Hanse Veeder in 1835, a third-generation German-American originally from upstate New York, Minden rapidly earned a reputation as a town of unique character, aided by the Minden Academy and the early introduction of the Methodist, Baptist, and Episcopalian religions. After Veeder left the town, the hearty settlers remained to foster Minden's growth and development. Although the seat of Webster Parish today, Minden has faced expansion fluctuations, caused by natural disaster and economic hardship, but followed by ambitious industrial endeavors and renewed hope. Minden thrived commercially, with economic gain centralized in Bayou Dorcheat, which was composed of separate landings acting as shipping points for goods coming from much of northern Louisiana. Industries like cotton farming and the Minden Lumber Mill, formed in 1901 as one of the largest mills in the United States at the time, caused the town's population to nearly double in just ten years. Under the leadership of great men like E.S. Richardson, Minden also became a model for other towns of similar size in the field of education. At the same time, disastrous fires, a catastrophic tornado, and the devastation of the steamboat trade on Bayou Dorcheat by the coming of the railroad challenged the community in the ever-changing twentieth century.

Until my twin brother, Sam went missing. Dragged into the principal's office at my latest loathsome school, I meet the darkly appealing Webb London. My world as I know it implodes. Part of a secret Navy SEAL team of natural-born vampires, Webb reveals an evil cartel has abducted Sam to claim an agent in his blood. But what flows through his veins runs through mine as well. A dormant gene, if activated, is all it will take to transform me into a vampire. Now, that could be my only hope to save Sam. Time is running out, and the stakes couldn't be higher. His life, or my humanity?
