Robin Rhode Andrea Bellini,Michele Robecchi,2016 The Cape Town-born, Berlin-based multidisciplinary artist Robin Rhode (born 1976) engages photography, performance, drawing and sculpture to create arrestingly beautiful narratives that are brought to life using materials such as soap, charcoal, chalk and paint. Coming of age in a newly post-apartheid South Africa, Rhode was exposed to new forms of creative expression motivated by the spirit of the individual rather than dictated by a political or social agenda. This new Hatje Cantz publication emphasizes the influence of Arte Povera on Rhode's aesthetic, whose creative dialogue also formed during his meeting with the gallery Tucci Russo and his early collaborative efforts with photographer Paolo Mussat Sartor, in which he transformed urban landscapes and interior spaces into imaginary worlds, as two-dimensional renderings become the subject of three-dimensional interactions by a sole protagonist (usually played by the artist or by an actor inhabiting the role of artist).

Studio Days Suzanne Hodes, 2017-04-19 Suzanne Hodes shares the personal impact of people, cities, nature, and great social and political disruptions of her generation through her art. There are over 100 color images of her art including paintings, drawings and prints in several media. In 1982 she co-founded the group Artists for Survival to support the nuclear freeze and social justice. Hodes grew up in New York City, studied with the legendary expressionist Oskar Kokoschka in Salzburg, and had a Fulbright grant to Paris, as well as a Bunting fellowship to Israel. Her work is in the collections of the Fogg Art Museum, the DeCordova Museum, the Danforth Art Museum, the Portland Museum of Art in Maine, the Art Complex Museum in Duxbury, and many public and private collections.

Street to Studio Rafael Schacter, 2018 For fifty years, graffiti and street art have been challenging conventions and stimulating debate around our perceptions of what constitutes art. As the genre enters its sixth decade, this ground-breaking book presents a new interpretation of where these alternative artforms are situated today. Introducing the concept of 'Inter mural Art' - art in-between the walls - Rafael Schacter presents a genre at a key moment of transition. While many street and graffiti artists are still challenging the orthodoxies of the public sphere, an increasingly prevalent group are reshaping the field by their studio practice. No longer furtively entering the institution, no longer slavishly reproducing exterior works inside, these artists have begun to create a form that articulates graffiti, street and contemporary-art influences, a form beholden on high art techniques and practices whilst simultaneously embracing its non-institutional roots. Through forty profiles of the leading proponents of this new approach from around the globe, Rafael Schacter presents a compelling analysis for 'Inter mural Art' while also showcasing some of the boldest work being made within contemporary art today.--Page 4 de la couverture.

Thirty-four Reverse Telescopes and Three Buttons Matt Connors, 2016 Thirty-Four Reverse Telescopes and Three Buttons catalogs the artist's recent body of colored Plexiglas works, made between 2013 and 2016, introduced obliquely with a poem by Ben Estes. Painter Matt Connors (born 1973) is known for combining a modernist visual vocabulary of grids and tense, minimal compositions with influences from design, poetry and music. Connors' recent series of works brings this sensibility into the play of media: paintings in acrylic on paper are mounted on colored matte board, framed behind colored Plexiglass, creating an effect of nested colored forms in space. Both objects and paintings, the deeply hued, mixed-media pieces have been reproduced in Thirty-Four Reverse Telescopes and Three Buttons in black and white as well as color, highlighting the works' complex tonality in addition to their dynamic coloration.

Anything That Is Anything Allin Khg, 2014-01-18 The images in this book were created on a smartphone using numerous applications. Starting as photographs sent to Allin by a friend, they were then edited to the point that the content of the original images was unrecognizable. Volume three of three.

Sugar Skulls Flame Tree Studio, 2018-07-15 Decorating t-shirts, jackets and bags and spread extensively across all forms of social media, the sugar skull has become a popular meme. This bright and colourful new book is packed with illustrations and explores the origins of the decorated sugar moulds and the Day of the Dead.

Street/studio Alison Young, 2010 Melbourne is deemed as the stencil capital of the world. As in other street art epicentres such as London, New York and Berlin, local artists in Melbourne must negotiate the challenges between the street, the studio and gallery spaces as urban art becomes increasingly commercialized in contemporary culture. This book examines these challenges.
