Me and My Middle Age Payal Talwar,2019-12-15 This is not a regular storybook - rather, it is an odyssey of a woman through her middle age, a phase which is full of exploration, discovery, and changes. The narrative is in the form of a relationship - of the author with her middle age, often a banter which makes one chuckle at the transformation happening, as much within as on the outside. So much changes in life as the years advance - and this simple, fluid and easy recount takes you, the reader, on a journey of your experiences, wherein you might gain a new perspective or just relate to the shifts you are experiencing, yourself. It aims to take you through all the areas which have made you evolve as a person. The question at the end of each chapter is meant to make you reflect and share. It is your personal digest, in which you can write and then, gift it to your friends - for them to share their thoughts too- resulting in a treasury of thoughts, feelings, and experiences. All in all, this is a book to make you reflect and observe your advancing years - with a click of your heels and a toss of your head - applauding your makeover and thanking the years for making you the woman you are today!

India-Pakistan Trade Normalisation Nisha Taneja, Isha Dayal, 2016-12-08 This book explores the unfinished India–Pakistan Trade normalisation agenda (building upon the themes covered in the book “India-Pakistan Trade: Strengthening Economic Relations” published by Springer in 2014) and discusses the steps that must be undertaken in order to move the bilateral engagement forward. Given the commencement of bilateral state-level talks and the Indian government’s emphasis on South Asian integration, it adds impetus to the trade liberalisation process, while also providing essential recommendations for policymakers in both countries. The unfinished agenda faces obstacles such as the list of items for which export from India to Pakistan continues to be restricted; lack of land borders and seamless cross-border transport services, which hampers the realisation of trade potential; negative reporting in the media, which influences traders’ perceptions; and the continued occurrence of informal trade resulting from inadequacies of formal trade relations. The book examines various sectors, including the agricultural, textiles, automotive and pharmaceutical industries, given their predominance on the list of restricted items for bilateral trade. It also covers studies on unconventional and under-researched themes concerning informal trade, informational barriers to India–Pakistan trade, and opening new land borders for trade – all of which can play a facilitating role in realizing the untapped trade potential between India and Pakistan. The book also includes the second round of the India–Pakistan trade perception survey, which identifies impediments to India–Pakistan bilateral trade and assesses the change in traders’ perceptions since the first round of the survey, which was published in 2014.
