Black Spark, White Fire Richard Poe,1999 Columbus Discovered America . . . But Who Discovered Europe? Were the ancient Egyptians black? Did Egyptian explorers land in Greece some 4,000 years ago? Did they plant colonies, establish royal houses, and bring civilization to Europe's savage tribes? Did the secret rites of their temple cults later resurface among the Knights Templar and the Freemasons? In Black Spark, White Fire, Richard Poe provides startling answers to these questions and more. Brilliant. . . . Poe has produced a classic volume . . . splendid in its conception and powerful in its execution--a major work.--Molefi Kete Asante, author of The Afrocentric Idea Superb. . . . I am convinced that within 20 years Richard Poe's views will be seen as closer to the historical truth than those of the present defenders of the status quo. The book is clear, well-written, and hard to put down. While we disagree on a number of issues, Black Spark, White Fire is the popular book that I am incapable of writing.--Martin Bernal, author of Black Athena It is refreshing to hear the Afrocentric theory of ancient Egypt argued so persuasively, from a viewpoint that is neither liberal nor conservative, black nor white.--Armstrong Williams, syndicated columnist and TV talk show host

Lewam The Daughter of Black and White Pharaohs Selamawit Hagos,2020-01-29

Exodus E. G. White,2015-03-01 Reared in the ways of the God of the heavens during his early childhood, Moses, who was drawn from the water, was moved from his humble abode to one of privilege with every amenity. Temptation abounded, but the teaching of his mother in the way of truth lingered in his mind, even as he was tutored in the schools of the pharaoh. With his leadership and military training behind him, yet convinced of his sacred duty, he ached to see his people suffer. Thus, Moses committed the same grave error of many of his ancestors: taking matters into his own hands. An Egyptian oppressor died because of Moses' misguided fervor, which sent him fleeing as a fugitive. In the mountains of Moses' refuge, God broke down the strongholds of Egyptian influence. As forty years of Moses' life passed in his wilderness hideaway, God instilled in His servant lessons of faith, patience, humility, and reverence. When Moses was humbled, God met him at the burning bush. He trembled at the thought of returning to the land of his birth to face a brotherly foe. Only then did God lay out His detailed instruction to rescue the Hebrew people. Together Moses and his brother Aaron took the message of God to the earthly king: "Let My people go." The pharaoh met the brothers' approach with wrath: "I know not Jehovah, neither will I let Israel go," boasting that their God had no power to deliver them. Hence, a series of plagues bombarded the people of the Nile. Just before the tenth and final plague, Moses instructed God's chosen with their course of action. They needed to submit to His command through obedience to heavenly direction just as we need to be surrendered so that we can be saved. When the cry of bereavement rose from the land of sun gods and papyrus reeds, the Hebrews were ready to go. The pharaoh once denounced the sovereign God: "Who is Jehovah, that I should obey His voice to let Israel go?" cried out as he hovered over the limp body of his firstborn, "Rise up, and get you forth from among my people. . . . Also take your flocks and herds . . . and be gone.” Thus, the descendents of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob left the land of their bondage. When the grieving king learned that the whole enslaved nation had marched to the Red Sea instead of the desert, his ire burned within him. When the pursuing army approached, the God Almighty enveloped the opposition in a foggy cloud, blinding their view. As the darkness deepened over the Egyptians predators, confusion and dismay reigned. To the Hebrew people, however, that same cloud illuminated the encampment with the light of day, and hope resurged in their hearts. When Moses lifted his rod over the swelling waters, they parted, creating a walled pathway through the sea. God’s pillar lighted their way from shore to shore in that night of flight. The Psalmist penned of the following morning when the last Israelite footstep was safely on the eastern shore: “The clouds poured out water: the skies sent out a sound: thine arrows also went abroad. The voice of thy thunder was in the heaven: the lightnings lightened the world: the earth trembled and shook” (Psalm 77:17-18). Thus, the Egyptians pursuers followed their firstborn into death. In only one night, God’s people experienced complete deliverance—men, women, children, and even their livestock. God has a plan of deliverance for those who have chosen Him as their Savior, Lord, and Friend that is greater than that of the miracle at the Red Sea. We may lay claim to the sacrifice of our Redeemer, and keep our eyes ever focused on Him rather than what sin may offer us for a season.

Thirty Centuries of Solitude and Then? Fernand W. Dahan, 2018-05-16 This black and white edition tells the story of a pharaoh whose son was changed into a frog by a sorcerer. This sorcerer told the frog that he could become human again once every one hundred years if he would be kissed by an Egyptian princess. The frog wandered in Egypt for a long time, witnessing events and remembering them, and eventually came to the US. There he found a child who was the daughter of a medical doctor of Egyptian descent. The frog told her that one of her ancestors was a pharaoh and that therefore she was an Egyptian princess. He persuaded the child to kiss him. As soon as she did, the frog changed into an Egyptian prince. He was dressed as the son of a pharaoh, and he proceeded to tell her his story. He told her of his life in the palace of his father and described all the important buildings and monuments of the pharaonic period. He described events that happened in the kingdom, as he had witnessed those events first as a prince and then as a frog. Many of the beliefs presented in the story are the products of the author's imagination, such as mermaids, Nilemaids, underwater kingdoms, and talks with animals. A belief in sorcery, however, has always existed. The novel is ultimately a moral story. It emphasizes that criminals are caught and that they pay for their crimes.

Out of Africa Regina Smith-White, 2014-06-11 Out of Africa: Is a journey of The African from the beginning of mankind to her earliest ancestors and into their captivity. The Ancient Egyptians attest: We came from the beginning of the Nile, where the God Hapi dwells. at the foothills of the mountains of the moon, near the [base] of the Mountain of God The Beginning of the Nile is located in two areas: Uganda (The White Nile) Ethiopia (The Blue Nile) The Mountains of the moon is located in two areas: Mt. Kilimanjaro (Kenya) Mt. Ruwenzori (Uganda) The Blue Nile located in Ethiopia is and was known as the River Gihon, also referred to in the Hebrew Bible. It ran through the entire land of Kush (Northeast Africa and the Sudan ). The Gihon and Pison Rivers are both located in Africa and are the only two rivers of the four leading out of the "Garden of Eden", Both rivers have maintained their original names in the ancient of days. However, the names of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers are not their original names but were named as such much later in history. One of the oldest African religious accounts for the origin of man and his early development survives in the Greek annals which states that there was an ancient people of the land of Kush who flourished in Africa. They are mentioned in the story of the Hebrews and resided in the present day Sudan, and along and throughout the Nile Valley Basin, and as far as the Sahara desert. The Greek historian Diodorus Siculus wrote that the Kushites (Cushites) were "natives" to the land and that they were of the opinion that their country was the birthplace of the human race and that they built the first civilizations. The Kushites considered themselves to be the children of God and the first to be created. The African Race "Between the years of 1834 and 1908, there occurred a revolution in academic thinking about Africa's place in the outlines of World Geography World History. And in the past 150 years, European explorers and archaeologists have found in the valleys of the Niger, Benwezi, Limpopo and the Nile Rivers, in the basin of Lake Chad and the Sahara, extensive remains of hundreds of ruins which bear witness to the existence of former civilizations hundreds and thousands of years ago. This knowledge of the facts about the African past when combined with the known history of other continents reveal that these also are the stories of triumphs and failures of mankind and form many chapters in the history of the human race" Professor William Leo Hansberry. Dr. Louis Leakey writes, "In every country that one visits and where one is drawn into a conversation about Africa. The question is regularly asked, by people who should know better, 'What has Africa contributed to world progress? The critics of Africa forget that men of science today are, with few exceptions, satisfied, that Africa is the birthplace of mankind and that for many hundreds of centuries thereafter Africa was in the forefront of all world progress”.
