Mr. CEO, I'm Very Obedient Yun Su,2020-09-30 In his previous life, Yun Zhen was extremely disgusted with Lu Jiuyuan, who was taken back by his father. She decided to pamper this big boss, Lu Jiuyun! She was reborn on the day that she had just offended Lu Jiuyun. Long distance ~ I shouldn't have bullied you before. A year after the wedding, Yun was not only in her apron but also in her miniskirt. The Heavenly Dao was the perfect reincarnation cycle. Who had the heavens spared?

The Halberd at Red Cliff Xiaofei Tian,2020-10-26 The turn of the third century CE—known as the Jian'an era or Three Kingdoms period—holds double significance for the Chinese cultural tradition. Its writings laid the foundation of classical poetry and literary criticism. Its historical personages and events have also inspired works of poetry, fiction, drama, film, and art throughout Chinese history, including Internet fantasy literature today. There is a vast body of secondary literature on these two subjects individually, but very little on their interface. The image of the Jian'an era, with its feasting, drinking, heroism, and literary panache, as well as intense male friendship, was to return time and again in the romanticized narrative of the Three Kingdoms. How did Jian'an bifurcate into two distinct nostalgias, one of which was the first paradigmatic embodiment of wen (literary graces, cultural patterning), and the other of wu (heroic martial virtue)? How did these largely segregated nostalgias negotiate with one another? And how is the predominantly male world of the Three Kingdoms appropriated by young women in contemporary China? The Halberd at Red Cliff investigates how these associations were closely related in their complex origins and then came to be divergent in their later metamorphoses.

Deliver a Set of Tools for Resolving Bad Inductive Loops and Correcting Bad Data Xiao-Yun Lu,ZhuWhan Kim,Meng Cao,Zhaomiao Guo,Scott Johnston,John Spring (Engineer),University of California, Berkeley. Institute of Transportation Studies,Pravin Pratap Varaiya,Partners for Advanced Transit and Highways (Calif.),Roberto Horowitz,2012 This project prototyped and demonstrated procedures to find and mitigate loop detector errors, and to derive more valuable data from loops. Specifically, methods were developed to find and isolate out loop data which is bad or invalid, so that mitigation means, or fixes can be implemented. Methods of extracting very accurate speed (+/- 3mph) and vehicle length data (+/- 1meter) from single loop stations were demonstrated to be much more accurate than current Caltrans practice. The validity of these methods were statistically proven using hundreds of thousands of vehicles. Additionally, more accurate and reliable methods of detecting the onset of both recurring or incident based congestion were demonstrated. These methods require access to the unprocessed loop detector card data. This unprocessed data can be acquired from the Log170 program, third party loop readers like the Infotek Wizard, or DRI's ubiquitous C1 reader. DRI intends to implement many of these methodologies in the C1 reader client software, Videosync.

The Secret Life of Literature Lisa Zunshine,2022-03-15 An innovative account that brings together cognitive science, ethnography, and literary history to examine patterns of “mindreading” in a wide range of literary works. For over four thousand years, writers have been experimenting with what cognitive scientists call “mindreading”: constantly devising new social contexts for making their audiences imagine complex mental states of characters and narrators. In The Secret Life of Literature, Lisa Zunshine uncovers these mindreading patterns, which have, until now, remained invisible to both readers and critics, in works ranging from The Epic of Gilgamesh to Invisible Man. Bringing together cognitive science, ethnography, and literary studies, this engaging book transforms our understanding of literary history. Central to Zunshine’s argument is the exploration of mental states “embedded” within each other, as, for instance, when Ellison’s Invisible Man is aware of how his white Communist Party comrades pretend not to understand what he means, when they want to reassert their position of power. Paying special attention to how race, class, and gender inform literary embedments, Zunshine contrasts this dynamic with real-life patterns studied by cognitive and social psychologists. She also considers community-specific mindreading values and looks at the rise and migration of embedment patterns across genres and national literary traditions, noting particularly the use of deception, eavesdropping, and shame as plot devices. Finally, she investigates mindreading in children’s literature. Stories for children geared toward different stages of development, she shows, provide cultural scaffolding for initiating young readers into a long-term engagement with the secret life of literature.
