Wim Van Binsbergen, Peter Geschiere

Survey of Food Crop Farming Systems in the "Zapi-Est", East Cameroon.
IITA/ONAREST, 1980 E. A. Atayi, H. C. Knipscheer, 1980

A story of Zapi Natalia Paulus, Elena Jung, 2024-04-20 Die unvergleichliche Wärme eines kleinen, vertrauten Wesens in den Händen zu spüren - es gibt nichts Schöneres. In diesem Buch tauchen wir ein in das Schicksal von zwei zauberhaften Kaninchen, Zapi und Lilly. Durch ihre Augen betrachten wir das Leben aus einer neuen und außergewöhnlichen Perspektive. Zapi und Lilly lehren uns, unseren inneren Blick zu öffnen und die Welt mit anderen Augen zu sehen. Diese fesselnde Geschichte erzählt von der einzigartigen Bindung zwischen den beiden Kaninchen, die sich bedingungslos lieben. Gemeinsam durchleben sie Krankheit, Trennung und sogar den Tod selbst, doch ihre Liebe zueinander bleibt unerschütterlich. Wir möchten dem Leser und allen Kaninchenbesitzern zeigen, dass es sich lohnt, bis zum Schluss für das Leben dieser kleinen pelzigen Wesen zu kämpfen - egal wie schwer die Situation zu sein scheint!

The Camp Colman Hogan, Marta Marin-Dòmine, 2021-02-03 The camp is nothing if not diverse: in kind, scope, and particularity; in sociological and juridical configuration; in texture, iconography, and political import. Adjectives of camp specificity embrace a spectrum from extermination and concentration, to detention, migration, deportation, and refugee camps. And while the geographic range covered by contributors is hardly global, it is broad:

Chile, Rwanda, Canada, the US, Central Europe, Morocco, Algeria, South Africa, France and Spain. And yet—is to so characterize the camp to run the risk of diffusing what in origin is a concentration into a paratactical series of “identity particularisms”? While The Camp does not seek to antithetically promulgate a universalist vision, it does aim to explore the imbrication of the particular and the universal, to analyze the structure of a camp or camps, and to call attention the role of the listener in the construction of the testimony. For, by naming what cannot be said, is not every narrative of internment and exclusion a potential site of agency, articulating the inner splitting of language that Giorgio Agamben defines as the locus of testimony: “to bear witness is to place oneself in one’s own language in the position of those who have lost it, to establish oneself in a living language as if it were dead, or in a dead language as if it were living.”

Nowhere Countries: Exclusion of Non-Citizens from Rights through Extra-Territoriality at Home Pauline Maillet, 2019-12-09 In Nowhere Countries: Exclusion of Non-Citizens from Rights through Extra-Territoriality at Home, Pauline Maillet proposes to render visible the mechanisms by which states make their territory disappear to prevent asylum seekers’ arrival. Using legal analysis and ethnography, this book traces how several states have created spaces deemed extra-territorial.

The Perils of Belonging Peter Geschiere, 2009-08-01 Despite being told that we now live in a cosmopolitan world, more and more people have begun to assert their identities in ways that are deeply rooted in the local. These claims of autochthony—meaning “born from the soil”—seek to establish an irrefutable, primordial right to belong and are often employed in politically charged attempts to exclude outsiders. In The Perils of Belonging, Peter Geschiere traces the concept of autochthony back to the classical period and incisively explores the idea in two very different contexts: Cameroon and the Netherlands. In both countries, the momentous economic and political changes following the end of the cold war fostered anxiety over migration. For Cameroonians, the question of who belongs where rises to the fore in political struggles between different tribes, while the Dutch invoke autochthony in fierce debates over the integration of immigrants. This fascinating comparative perspective allows Geschiere to examine the emotional appeal of autochthony—as well as its dubious historical basis—and to shed light on a range of important issues, such as multiculturalism, national citizenship, and migration.

Magical Interpretations, Material Realities Henrietta L. Moore, Todd Sanders, 2003-11-17 'Magical Interpretations, Material Realities brings together many of today's best scholars of contemporary Africa. The theme of witchcraft has long been associated with exoticizing portraits of a traditional Africa, but this volume takes the question of occult as a point of entry into the moral politics of some very modern African realities.' - James Ferguson, University of California, USA 'These essays bear eloquent testimony to the ongoing presence and power of the occult imaginary, and of the intimate connection between global capitalism and local cosmology, in postcolonial Africa. A major contribution to scholarship that aims to rework the divide between modernity and tradition.' - Charles Piot, Duke University, USA This volume sets out recent thinking on witchcraft in Africa, paying particular attention to variations in meanings and practices. It examines the way different people in different contexts are making sense of what 'witchcraft' is and what it might mean. Using recent ethnographic materials from across the continent, the volume explores how witchcraft articulates with particular modern settings for example: the State in Cameroon;

Pentecostalism in Malawi; the university system in Nigeria and the IMF in Ghana, Sierra Leone and Tanzania. The editors provide a timely overview and reconsideration of long-standing anthropological debates about 'African witchcraft', while simultaneously raising broader concerns about the theories of the western social sciences.

Blowing Away the Bura Mike Cavendish, 2022-12-16 In this novel, by October 1991 war in western Croatia between Croats and Serbs is daily and deadly. Navenka Berik, a wimpy 25-year-old Serb mother of two has had her Serb parents and her Croat husband make decisions for her. During the next few months: - Her father is taken and presumed killed, - Navenka is raped, - Her husband is arrested and probably is killed, - Her mother becomes crippled, - From the rape, another child is born, - Remaining family members are on the run as internally displaced persons in the dissolving Yugoslavia, - The hassled Navenka has to step up and lead. Unwelcome anywhere, the family languishes with temporary protection visas in Germany. In 1996, they are accepted as refugees in Australia. Peace, the English language and Australia's very multicultural society bring many new problems. Navenka's ongoing memories of her husband keep her wishing that he might be alive. Thoughts of moving back to Croatia or to Bosnia end when, briefly, Navenka attends the trial of those accused of murdering her father. There, poverty and the old ethnic prejudices live on. Back in Australia, her long "lost" husband finds her. However, after the initial joy wears off, the terms of his demand, at gunpoint, that his family go and live in Croatia with him are unacceptable. Navenka's daughter Srebrenka, too young to be burdened by bad memories of Yugoslavia, cleverly resolves the impasse. People react differently to war. Some think. Some "just feel".
