New Selected Poems of T. Byron Kelly T. Byron Kelly, 2009-12-08 I find connectedness through various forms (poetry, painting, music) by insisting on spontaneity. An image that I paint could very well become a chorus in a song. Paying close attention to my dreams and the soft voices inside my imagination, and allowing these to shape within my being's center (an emanation of my heart), this is the affirmation of the symbolic through faith. An invisible loving which manifests itself through patience and is never controlled- the hidden becoming known. My work will always seek an affirmation or communion while creating a liberation of the ordinary. A visionary poetic journey of over twenty years, New Selected Poems is a celebration of heartsongs that will inspire.

The Poems of T. Warton, and J. Warton Thomas Warton, Joseph Warton, 1822

The Selected Poems of T'ao Ch'ien Tao Chien, 2016-08-01 T'ao Ch'ien, (365 - 427, C.E.), one of the most revered poets in classical Chinese literature, is presented in a lucid translation with an introduction. David Hinton is one of the most impressive of the younger translators of classical Chinese poetry.... His renderings are varied and imaginative while remaining faithful to the spirit of the original.--Burton Watson

POEMS OF T. E BROWN T. E. BROWN, 2018

Selected Poems [of] T. Carmi [and] Dan Pagis T. Carmi, Dan Pagis, 1976

The Poems of T'ao Ch'ien 陶潛, 1953 T'ao Ch'ien (A.D. 265-427) is recognized today as China's greatest poet in the five-word metre. While many of his poems have already been translated, this is the first English translation of his complete poetic works.--Jacket

Poems of T. E Brown (Classic Reprint) T. E. Brown, 2015-07-03 Excerpt from Poems of T. E Brown What I can do I do, nor am I vexed Nor worn with endless strife. As you are, being perplexed, With suppositions, scribbling o'er the text Of natural life. And seeing that this so. (Old John, p. 93.) The subtitle Homo Loquitur to Part I. is editorial. A word remains to be said about the portrait of T. E. Brown as a youth - chosen for the frontispiece of our volume. Those familiar with the expression of the older man, so admirably reproduced in the portrait of the Collected Poems, may feel dissatisfied. They may miss that mixture of humour and gravity in the countenance which the weight of years had wrought in his features even before he began to publish his poems. On the other hand, the new portrait, which is said to be really an excellent copy of the original, looks the very image of the youth who was to be the father of the man. Doubtless one notes the absence of the ironical strain; but the humour, or at any rate the fun, seems to lurk round the lips of this youthful portrait. And as a discerning judge of character remarks, Why! he has eyes that look as though they could see into both worlds. Beyond the Court Gate Trãi Nguyễn, 2010 Poetry. Southeast Asia Studies. Translated from the Vietnamese by Nguyen Do and Paul Hoover. While Li Po and other classic Chinese poets mostly found expression through landscape, Vietnamese poet Nguyen Trai (1380-1422) wrote about his own life. The literary symbols of T'ang Dynasty poetry are relatively general, traditional, and polite, but Nguyen Trai developed a colloquial and personal style. As a result, his poems have the intimacy and immediacy of the everyday. Over six hundred years old, they appear, in this translation by contemporary Vietnamese poet Nguyen Do and American poet Paul Hoover, to have been written only yesterday, by someone whose feelings we are able to share, despite their distance from us in time and culture. This is the first collection of Nguyen Trai's poetry to be published in English.
